STATE OVER TOP; SEEKS MAXIMUM

Nation's Total $2,838,317,300, New England $262,344,000; Now for 400 Millions!

Massachusetts and New England are now well over the top on the Liberty Loan. Another full day is left to boost the total to the $400,000,000 mark.

The State and district both reached the minimum allotment today, and Rhode Island is now the only State which has not filled its quota. New England's total subscription is $262,344,000, or 104.5 per cent. of its minimum figure, and the Bay State's total is $164,729,000, or 101.5 per cent.

The total subscription for the district today's announcement gives as $18,322,000 for the last twenty-four hours, of which amount Massachusetts contributed nearly 80 per cent. —$14,380,000.

Boston, however, still lacks $6,000,000, approximately, of its quota. The gross subscriptions for the day were $9,676,000, and the total $88,262,000. Of this amount, however, so much is designated in credits to other cities and towns that only $58,266,200 remains for Boston's quota.

In the nation there still remains $162,000,000 to be subscribed. The total subscriptions, as indicated by initial payments, are $2,838,317,300; but the experience of the other loans showed that the closing hours brought out a flood of contributions, and Treasury officials are confident that $3,000,000,000 will be reached. The thing about which they are principally concerned is the size of the over-subscription.

The Chicago Federal Reserve District, the local district, has oversubscribed its quota, its allotment of

"Over the Top" Flag Now Flies From State House

An honor flag flies over the State House today.

Promptly at 2:30 this afternoon the flag was hoisted, to show that Massachusetts had gone over the top on its third Liberty Loan campaign.

The Bay State's quota was filled today, and by tomorrow night, it is hoped, there will be a generous margin over the minimum. The flying of the honor flag does not mean that there will be any slackening in the campaign; on the contrary, the drive will continue to the last minute.

MARCH RAILWAY INCOME SHOWS FALLING OFF

Washington, May 3.—The railroad administration today reported a falling off in railway operating income for March of $5,053,185, compared with the earnings of March last year. The net operating income shows a decrease of $8,338,521. Railway operation revenues were $264,130,632; operating expenses were $221,794,998, making a net revenue of $42,335,697, less railway tax accruals of $11,639,522 and uncollectable railway revenues of $67,842.

The operating income for the month was $50,623,302, as against $57,692,037 for March, 1917. In addition to that, deductions for equipment rent of $2,233,119 and joint facility rent of $103,945 makes the net operating income $47,462,127 for March, against $54,580,648 for the preceding period.

Net operating income in the Eastern district was $15,583,013, compared with $20,869,729 last year. The Southern district's net was $12,214,608, compared with $11,582,209 last year. Net for the Western district was $19,664,506, compared with $21,748,810.

DRIVE HUNS BACK NEAR AMIENS

Both Paris and London Report Successes on the Picardy Battle Front

The French and British both made gains today. The Paris War Office reports a French advance south of Villers-Bretonneux on the Picardy front, where Americans were recently reported fighting.

The French also took 100 prisoners in a raid near Hailles-Castel, about six miles south of Villers-Bretonneux. The British gained a local advantage in the Villers-Bretonneux sector, and made successful raids on the southern end of the Flanders front.

By FLOYD McGRIFF,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, May 3.—With the artillery roaring along the Flanders front, the British struck again in the sector of Villers-Bretonneux on the Picardy front, gaining a local advantage, the War Office reported today.

Villers-Bretonneux, which is in British hands, lies about nine miles east of Amiens, and has been the

BAY STATE MEN DIE IN ACTION

Total of 88 in Casualty List That Hits Massachusetts and Connecticut Hard

Today's war casualty list swept into Greater Boston and New England homes with woeful force. The 101st Infantry, largely made up of the old "Fighting Ninth" and "Dandy Fifth" Regiments, figures in the roll.

The total casualty list issued at Washington contains eighty-eight names. Out of eighteen Americans killed, seventeen were New England youths.

If Company of the 101st Infantry was made up largely of H Company of the old Fighting Ninth and had headquarters in the East Armory, Boston.

The two "wounded" lists (slightly and severely), total sixty names, of which New England furnishes fifty-two. There are two "severely wounded." Both are New Englanders and one of these is a Bay State soldier.

The "slightly wounded" list runs to fifty-eight names. New England furnishes fifty. Twelve of these are Bay State names, with five of Greater Boston.

There are two names in the "Missing in action" list. One of these is a Bay State name.

Every New England State except Vermont is represented in the total list.

250,000 TO ANSWER AT ONCE

Massachusetts Must Send 2,367 of Largest Number Summoned to Swell Army

A new draft call for approximately 250,000 men is to be issued immediately.

This will be our largest since the United States entered the war.

Major Roger Wolcott, who is in charge of draft matters in this State, received notification from Provost Marshal-General Crowder today that 2,367 draft men would be summoned from Massachusetts right away. These will be called under the present draft provisions.

Washington dispatches said General Crowder believed that by working to-

MORE BOSTON BOYS DEAD ON BATTLEFIELD

Among the Boston boys whose names appear in today's casualty list are Corporal Arthur W. Burns, Killbert H. MacDonald and Lieutenant J. Horace Farnham, killed; and Private George Bonfiglie, Private Ralph D. Phinney and Private Robert Downing, Private Henry Goldsmith and Private M. H. Quinn, slightly wounded.

Burns enlisted five years ago in Company M of the old 5th Regiment, and saw service with it on the border. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Burns of No. 607 East Fourth street, South Boston, and celebrated his twenty-second birthday in France on March 30. Burns left the South Boston High School in his second year, to take up the trade of a machinist. He had one brother, John Roy Burns.

George Bonfiglio is the son of Mrs. Mary Bonfiglio of No. 135 Richmond street, North End, and is twenty-one years old. He enlisted in the old 5th Regiment on July 26, 1917. He was graduated from the Eliot School. He was employed in a candy factory.

Ralph D. Phinney is twenty and a member of Company D, 101st Engineers, Gun Battalion. He is the son of Mr and Mrs. Frank Phinney of No. 481 Norfolk street, Dorchester, and served on the Mexican border.

FIRST HYDE PARK MARTYR.

The first Hyde Park boy to give his life in his country is Private Albert H. MacDonald, nineteen years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander MacDonald of Kensington road, in the Readville section.

He was a member of Company M, 103d Regiment of the 26th division, and enlisted on July 26, 1917, in the regular army from Greenville, Me., where he was working at the time of his enlistment.

Robert Downing of Company H, 101st Infantry, who was slightly wounded in action in France, lived in East Boston with his brother, Sanford Downing, at No. 96 Everett street. Before enlisting for service abroad he was employed as a deckhand on the steamer George Hibbard, plying between Boston and Deer Island.

Downing, who is thirty-six, is a native of St. John, N. B. He was graduated from the Samuel Adams School.

Henry Goldsmith, 26, a member of the 104th Ambulance Corps, lived with his mother, Mrs. Rose Bronkhurst, at No. 3 Linden street, South Boston. He was slightly wounded. Young Goldsmith was a graduate of the Thomas N. Hart School and was a salesman.

He is an only son and at the time President Wilson called for volunteers he was one of the first to respond.

FARNHAM FALLS TO DEATH.

Lieutenant J. Horace Farnham, 26 years old, a member of the British Royal Flying Corps, was killed on April 25, when the machine which he was operating failed to function properly while several thousand feet in the air, according to information received by his father, Thomas S. Farnham, of No. 28 Burroughs street, Jamaica Plain.

Enlisting in September, Farnham received his training at Toronto University and then went to Texas to study gunnery, sailing for England in February.

Lieutenant Farnham is a graduate of West Roxbury High and the Boston Business College and at the time of his enlistment was a senior in Boston University.

Private Quinn is of Company H 101st Infantry, hailing from South Boston, all members of the Andrew Square Association of South Boston, have been reported wounded in the trenches in France. The organization, which is one of the largest social clubs in Boston, is proud of the fact that ninety-four members are fighting for the colors under Uncle Sam's banner.

The names of the wounded are: Corporal M. J. Quinn, who was reported wounded yesterday; Joseph Doherty, George Libby, Sergeant Walter B. Grant, Thomas Musker, John Canavan, Arthur Prescott, John Fitzgerald, Joseph Zylinski, Robert Reid and John M. Kenny.

POLAND IGNORES CLAIM OF UKRAINIA ON CHOLM

London, May 3.—Poland considers the Cholm question non-existent and is establishing courts despite Ukrainia's claim, said a news agency dispatch from Copenhagen today.

When Germany made peace with the Ukrainian rada the district known as Cholm was promised to Ukrainia, despite the fact that it is part of Poland.

NEW DRAFT CALL FOR 250,000 MEN

night the new call could be issued tomorrow.

Thus the administration's army expansion program is being set in rapid motion.

In addition to the announcement of the record-breaking new draft a call for 2,607 selective service men, whose occupations have previously been listed in the nation's "want" column, was issued at Washington today by General Crowder. Mobilization of these selective service men will begin May 17. Every State in the Union except New Jersey will contribute.

The 2,367 Bay State men under the present draft will be sent to training camps during the five-day period beginning May 25.

The number will include 136 colored men who will be mobilized and shipped during a three weeks' period beginning on the same date.

General Crowder explained that Massachusetts' gross quota was 38,787 men. The State, however, was credited with enlistments in the army and navy of over 16,000, together with inductions, which brought the total credits up to more than 28,000.

BAXTER TELLS OF WAR PERIL IN PARIS

Charles S. Baxter, chairman of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief Committee, which recently returned from France, was the chief speaker at noon today at Victory Cottage on the Common.

He said in part:

"The streets of Paris today are like a primeval forest. There are signs on posts and buildings calling attention to the location of arbres or bomb retreats. When bombing begins you get into one of these retreats as soon as you possibly can. There is a hombardment by the German long range gun every day. The alert or warning signal is given by fire engines tearing through the streets with their sirens shrieking.

"There are no automobiles in the streets of Paris today. We were taken to our hotel through dark streets in a dilapidated old cab. When we arrived at the hotel we found the occupants crouched in an old wine cellar, while a bombardment was going on over their heads.

NO ONE LAUGHS NOW

"The statement that Parisians laugh at the German long range gun is untrue. No one in France is laughing now. After the slaughter at the cathedral on Good Friday we went there and saw the bodies of the victims being carried away, while the steps and the shattered floor were red with their blood.

"If you want to destroy the worst war machine the world has ever known, subscribe for Liberty Bonds until you are unable to do so any longer.

"If you have relatives and friends in the army over there, write them. Write them, write them. You cannot write too many letters to please the boys over there. Do not be discouraged if you do not hear from them regularly, as they are very busy and do not get much time to write. Our task is beating the Hun, and they are devoting every energy to that end.

"General Pershing told us that it was an outrage and a shame to say that our boys are either immoral or inefficient. He said he had the whitest, cleanest, most efficient army in the world."

DUNBAR, SLAIN, EAGER MARTYR FOR JUSTICE

"I'd be willing to give my life ten times to see Germany crushed for the wrong she has done the world," wrote Private Joseph Dunbar, who was killed in action on Saturday, April 27, fighting against the Huns on the American front in France.

Following the telegram announcing her brother's death in action with Company H, 101st Regiment, of the American forces, Mrs. C. J. O'Neill, of No. 189 Sheridan avenue, Medford, today received a letter from Private Dunbar written from the first line trenches and mailed on April 12.

The letter came to Mrs. O'Neill like a message from the grave, and contained the following:

"WE'LL GET FRITZIE YET."

"We are again on the firing line after a brief stay behind the lines. Not much time for writing here, and when a fellow does get a chance to write he has so many letters to answer that he doesn't know where to begin. I have received several letters from Medford friends, which are unanswered. Please call them up and explain the situation I am in, as I do not like to have too many letters for the officers to censor.

"The weather here is fine now, but up to your knees in mud. I am getting so used to the trenches now that I am beginning to like them. Of course, the worst is when Fritzie sends over cologne shells (gas). We had a touch of it at 3 a. m. yesterday, so you see he can't be so easy.

"Never mind, we'll get Fritzie yet. Tell John (a nephew) that I bought him that trench hat I promised him, but we were called in again so suddenly that I didn't have a chance to send it to him.

BUSY DODGING BULLETS.

"The worst thing about this life is that it's a terrible job ducking bullets. I can tell you there's no fun to it. Such sights as we see here beggar description—the destruction of the cities and towns and fields is terrible, and the bodies of the dead lying in masses is a wicked sight. You can't imagine it.

"Where I am there is plenty of noise—artillery pounding all of the time.

"The Knights of Columbus are doing fine work with the boys. We have a priest here from Philadelphia, and we never miss mass on Sunday. It is a solemn sight to attend mass in a dugout with no light except a solitary candle.

"I will bring home a gun for John (his nephew), but I want to put a few nicks in it first. Every time we get a Boche we whittle a nick on the wooden stock. I saw one gun belonging to a Frenchman that was so covered with nicks that there was not room for any more. But that's easy to do. Wait until you see my gun. Anyway, I'll give it to John when I come home, for I hope that I'll have done my bit by that time.

LONGS FOR A BIT OF IRISH CAKE.

"I'm going to write Miss ——— for a good big Irish cake, or if you could manage to send one, believe me, it would not go to waste. We fellows know now just what a piece of bread means, so if anybody should ask you what I want most, just put them wise to Irish cake.

"The only troubles with your letters is that they are not long enough. Write often. Your affectionate

"BROTHER JOE."

Private Joseph Dunbar came from Country Leitrim, Ireland, 8½ years ago. He leaves a mother, sister, and two brothers in the old country. In Medford he made his home with his married sister, Mrs. C. J. O'Neill, and was employed as a motorman in the Salem street car barn. He was 26 years old.

Shortly after the United States entered the war in April, 1917, Dunbar enlisted in the old "Dandy Fifth" as a private. He trained at Framingham and became a member of Company H, 101st Infantry, just before leaving for France on September 7. He was a very popular young man and greatly liked by everybody who knew him.

CARACAS EXPLOSION KILLS MORE THAN 30

An Atlantic Port, May 3. — First news of a serious explosion in the government arsenal at Caracas, Venezuela, was brought here today by passengers aboard the American steamship Philadelphia of the Red D Line, which arrived from Venezuela and Porto Rico. John D. Holby of Stamford, Ct., said more than thirty soldiers, among whom were two captains and a major of the Venezuelan army, were killed in the explosion.

Germans Now Claim Ypres Is of No Importance

By International News Service.

Amsterdam, May 2. — The Deutsche Tageszeitung says the Germans may not attack Ypres, "which is of no importance," owing to the resistance expected from the Allied troops.

BRITISH REPORT SUCCESS IN RAIDS

scene of four British successes within the past ten days. The British recaptured the village from the Germans in one burst of fighting.

The artillery on the Flanders line was especially active in the region of Givenchy, near Locre and south of Ypres, the official statement said.

The British made successful raids south of Arras and east of St. Venant on the southern end of the Flanders front, capturing ten prisoners and five machine guns.

The text of the official statement follows:

"Local fighting took place last night in the neighborhood of Villers-Bretonneux. We made successful raids south of Arras and east of St. Venant in the course of which we took ten prisoners and five machine guns.

"The artillery was active on both sides during the night between Givenchy and the Nieppe forest and in the neighborhood of Locre and south of Ypres.

"The Germans are expected to renew their Flanders offensive without much further delay. The heavy bombardments in the sectors of Villers-Bretonneux and Merris, it is believed, presage an early resumption of infantry thrusts.

"The desperate failure of the German efforts on Monday had a depressing effect upon them. Enemy prisoners complain that too much is expected of them, while, at the same time, they declare there is no abundance of reserves.

French Troops Make an Advance South of Villers-Bretonneux

Paris, May 3.—A French advance south of Villers-Bretonneux on the Picardy battle front was reported by the French War Office today.

Another French success was achieved further south, in the Ribecourt-Cantel sector, where the French delivered an attack, capturing 100 prisoners.

(Americans were reported recently to be fighting with the French near Villers-Bretonneux).

MORE BOSTON BOYS DEAD ON BATTLEFIELD

Among the Boston boys whose names appear in today's casualty list are Corporal Arthur W. Burns, Kilbert H. MacDonald and Lieutenant J. Horace Farnham, Jr., and Private George Bonfiglie, Private Ralph D. Phinney, Private Robert Downing, Private Henry Goldsmith and Private M. H. Quinn, slightly wounded.

Burns enlisted five years ago in Company H of the old Fifth Regiment, and saw service with it on the border. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Burns of No. 607 East Fourth street, South Boston, and celebrated his twenty-second birthday in France on March 20. Burns left the South Boston High School in his second year, to take up the trade of a machinist. He had one brother, John Roy Burns.

George Bonfiglio is the son of Mrs. Mary Bonfiglio of No. 135 Richmond street, North End, and is twenty-one years old. He enlisted in the 101st Regiment on July 26, 1917. He was graduated from the Eliot School. He was employed in a candy factory.

Ralph D. Phinney is twenty and a member of the Fifth Regiment Machine Gun Battalion. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phinney of No. 481 Norfolk street, Mattapan, and served on the Mexican border.

FIRST HYDE PARK MARTYR.

The first Hyde Park boy to give his life to his country is Private Albert H MacDonald, nineteen years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander MacDonald of Kensington road, in the Readville section.

He was a member of Company M, 103d Regiment of the 26th division, and enlisted on May 26, 1917, in the regular army from Greenville, Me., where he was working at the time of his enlistment.

Robert Downing of Company H, 101st Infantry, reported slightly wounded in action in France, lives at 18 East Boston with his brother, Sanford D. Downing, at 98 Everett street. Before enlisting for service abroad he was employed as a deckhand on the steamer George Hibbard, plying between Boston and Deer Island.

Downing, who is thirty-six, is a native of St. John, N. B. He was graduated from the Samuel Adams School.

Henry Goldsmith, 26, a member of the 104th Ambulance Corps, lived with his mother, Mrs. Rose Bronkhurst, of No. 3 Linden street, South Boston. He was slightly wounded. Young Goldsmith was a graduate of the Thomas N. Hart School and was a salesman.

He is an only son and at the time President Wilson called for volunteers he was one of the first to respond.

FARNHAM FALLS TO DEATH.

Lieutenant J. Horace Farnham, 26 years old, a member of the British Royal Flying Corps, was killed on April 25, when the machine which he was operating failed to function properly while several thousand feet in the air, according to information received by his father, Thomas S. Farnham, of No. 34 Burroughs street, Jamaica Plain.

Enlisting in September, Farnham received his training at Toronto University and then went to Texas to study gunnery, sailing for England in February.

Lieutenant Farnham is a graduate of West Roxbury High and the Boston Business College and at the time of his enlistment was a senior in Boston University.

¼ Eleven members of Company I, 101st Infantry, hailing from South Boston, all members of the Andrew Square Associates of South Boston, have been reported wounded in the trenches in France. The organization, which is one of the largest social clubs in Boston, is proud of the fact that ninety-four members are fighting for the colors under Uncle Sam's banner.

The names of the wounded are: Corporal M. J. ulnn, who was reported wounded yesterday; Joseph Doherty, George Libby, Sergeant Walter B. Grant, Thomas Mullen and John Canavan, Arthur Prescott, John Fitzgerald, Joseph Orlinski, Robert Reid and John M. Kenny.

POLAND IGNORES CLAIM OF UKRAINIA ON CHOLM

London, May 3.—Poland considers the Cholm question non-existent and is establishing courts despite Ukrainia's claim, said a news agency dispatch from Copenhagen today.

When Germany made peace with the Ukrainian rada the district known as Cholm was promised to Ukrainia despite the fact that it is part of Poland.

NEW DRAFT CALL FOR 250,000 MEN

night the new call could be issued tomorrow.

Thus the administration's army expansion program is being set in rapid motion.

In addition to the announcement of the record-breaking new draft a call for 2,607 selective service men, whose occupations have previously been listed in the nation's "want" columns, was issued at Washington today by General Crowder. Mobilization of these selective service men will begin May 17. Every State in the Union except New Jersey will contribute.

The 2,367 Bay State men under the present draft will be sent to training camps during a five-day period beginning May 25.

The number will include 136 colored men who will be mobilized and shipped during a three weeks' period beginning on the same date.

General Crowder explained that Massachusetts' proportion was 34,787 men. The State, however, was credited with enlistments in the army and navy of over 24,000, together with inductions, which brought the total credits up to more than 28,000.

JOSEPH DUNBAR, Medford boy in the 101st, killed in battle n France.

BAXTER TELLS OF WAR PERIL IN PARIS

Charles S. Baxter, chairman of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief Committee, which recently returned from France, was the chief speaker at noon today at Victory Cottage on the Common.

He said in part:

"The streets of Paris today are like a primeval forest. There are signs on posts and buildings calling attention to the location of arbors or bomb retreats. When bombing begins you get into one of these retreats as soon as you possibly can. There is a bombardment by the German long range gun every day. The alert or warning signal is given by fire engines tearing through the streets with their sirens shrieking.

"There are no automobiles in the streets of Paris today. We were taken on to our hotel through dark streets in a dilapidated old cab. When we arrived at the hotel we found the occupants crouched in an old wine cellar, while a bombardment was going on over their heads.

NO ONE LAUGHS NOW

"The statement that Parisians laugh at the German long range gun is untrue. No one in France is laughing now. After the slaughter at the cathedral on Good Friday we went there and saw the bodies of the victims being carried away, while the steps and the shattered floor were red with their blood.

"If you want to destroy the worst war machine the world has ever known, subscribe for Liberty Bonds until you are unable to do so any longer.

"If you have relatives and friends in the army over there, write them, write them, write them. You cannot write too many letters to please the boys over there. Do not be discouraged if you do not hear from them regularly, as they are very busy and do not get much time to write. Their task is beating the Hun, and they are devoting every energy to that end.

"General Pershing told us that it was an outrage and a shame to say that our boys are either immoral or tenifilient. He said he had the whitest, cleanest, most efficient army in the world."

HARBOR QUARTERS PERSHING'S STAFF FOR FIELD POST

By BERT FORD.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army in France, May 3.—Brigadier-General Harbor has been relieved as chief of staff to General Pershing and has been assigned to the troops in the field. Major-General James M. McAndrew has been appointed chief of staff.

DUNBAR, SLAIN, EAGER MARTYR FOR JUSTICE

"I'd be willing to give my life ten times to see Germany crushed for the wrong she has done the world," wrote Private Joseph Dunbar, who was killed in action on Saturday, April 27, fighting against the Hun on the American front in France.

Following the telegram announcing her brother's death in action with Company H, 101st Regiment, of the American forces, Mrs. C. J. O'Neill, of No. 189 Sheridan avenue, Medford, today received a letter from Private Dunbar written from the first line trenches and mailed on April 12.

The letter came to Mrs. O'Neill like a message from the grave, and contained the following:

"WE'LL GET FRITZIE YET."

"We are again on the firing line after a brief stay behind the lines. Not much time for writing here, and when a fellow does get a chance to write he has so many letters to answer that he doesn't know where to begin. I have received several letters from Medford friends, which are unanswered. Please call them up and explain the situation I am in, as I do not like to have too many letters for the officers to censor.

"The weather here is fine now, but up to your knees in mud. I am getting so used to the trenches now that I am beginning to like them. Of course, the worst is when Fritzie cracks over coogee shells (gas). We had a touch of it at 3 a. m. yesterday, so you see he can't be so easy.

"Never mind, we'll get Fritzie yet. Tell John (a nephew) that I bought him that trench hat I promised him, but we were called in again so suddenly that I didn't have a chance to send it to him.

BUSY DODGING BULLETS.

"The worst thing about this life is that it's a terrible job ducking bullets. I can tell you there's no fun in it. Such sights as we see here beggar description—the destruction of the cities and towns and fields is terrible, and the bodies of the dead lying in masses is a wicked sight. You can't imagine it.

"Where I am there is plenty of noise—artillery pounding all of the time.

"The Knights of Columbus are doing fine work with the boys. We have a priest here from Philadelphia, and we never miss mass on Sunday. It is a solemn sight to attend mass in a dugout with no light except a solitary candle.

"I will bring home a gun for John (his nephew), but I want to put a few nicks in it first. Every time we get a Boche we whittle a nick on the wooden stock. I saw one gun belonging to a Frenchman that was so covered with nicks that there was not room for any more. But that's easy to do. Wait until you see my gun. Anyway, I'll give it to John when I come home, for I hope that I'll have done my bit by that time.

LONGS FOR A BIT OF IRISH CAKE.

"Please to write Miss ——— for a good big Irish cake, or if you could manage to send one, believe me, it would not go to waste. We fellows know now just what a piece of bread means, so if anybody should ask you what I want most, just put them wise to Irish cake.

"The only trouble with your letters is that they are not long enough. Write often. Your affectionate

"BROTHER JOE."

Private Joseph Dunbar came from Country Leitrim, Ireland, 28 years ago. He leaves a mother, sister, and two brothers in the old country. In Medford he made his home with his married sister, Mrs. C. J. O'Neill, and was employed as a motorman in the Salem street car barn. He was 28 years old.

Shortly after the United States entered the war in April, 1917, Dunbar enlisted in the old "Dandy Fifth" as a private. He trained at Framingham and became a member of Company H, 101st Infantry, just before leaving for France on September 7. He was a very popular young man and greatly liked by everybody who knew him.

CARACAS EXPLOSION KILLS MORE THAN 30

An Atlantic Port, May 3. — First news of a serious explosion in the government arsenal at Caracas, Venezuela, was brought here today by passengers aboard the American steamship Philadelphia of the Red D Line, which arrived from Venezuela and Porto Rico. John D. Hoiby of Stamford, Ct., said more than 30 soldiers, among whom were two captains and a major of the Venezuelan army, were killed in the explosion.

Germans Now Claim Ypres Is of No Importance

By International News Service.

Amsterdam, May 3. — The Deutsche Tageszeitung says the Germans may not attack Ypres, "which is of no importance," owing to the resistance expected from the Allied troops.

BRITISH REPORT SUCCESS IN RAIDS

scene of four British successes within the past ten days. The British recaptured the villages from the Germans in one burst of fighting.

The artillery on the Flanders line was especially active in the region of Givenchy, near Loure and south of Ypres, the official statement said.

The British made successful raids south of Arras and east of St. Venant on the southern end of the Flanders front, capturing ten prisoners and five machine guns.

The text of the official statement follows:

"Local fighting took place last night in the neighborhood of Villers-Bretenneux. We made successful raids south of Arras and east of St. Venant in the course of which we took ten prisoners and five machine guns.

"The artillery was active on both sides during the night between Givenchy and the Nieppe forest and in the neighborhood of Loere and south of Ypres."

The Germans are expected to renew their Flanders offensive without much further delay. The heavy bombardments in the sectors of Villers-Bretonneux and Merris, it is believed, presage an early resumption of infantry attack.

The decisive failure of the German efforts on Monday had a depressing effect upon them. Enemy prisoners complain that too much is expected of them, while, at the same time, they declare there is no abundance of reserves.

French Troops Make an Advance South of Villers-Bretonneux

DEMAND FOR GOOD TASTING POSTAGE STAMPS BALKS SHIP PROGRAM

FLAVORING MATERIAL TAKES UP TONNAGE

By JOHN McHUGH STUART,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, May 3.—Ships capable of carrying two million tons a year to Europe are being held out of the inter-allied shipping program by interests involved in non-essential shipments.

While every corner of the world is being scoured for vessels to carry the millions of Americans so badly needed in Europe and pledged to the cause by Secretary Baker, it is learned that the Shipping Board is having the greatest difficulty in securing the craft of certain persons and firms.

The records of the shipping board show:

1—One large fruit company refuses to lend its steamers because it contends that its bananas are an essential item in American diet and that injury to the banana industry will impair the relations of the banana raising nations to the war. It also asks more money for its ships than the board proposes to give.

2—Other interests assert that tapioca is an essential import because it is used to flavor the mucilage on the back of postage stamps.

3—No action has yet been secured whereby 600,000 tons of shipping now importing sugar could be made available by cutting off this sugar from the candy industry of the United States.

4—An equal amount of shipping might be available if certain interests could be induced to discontinue the import of rice from Japan in view of the fact that the United States itself raises more rice than is used here.

These facts were developed in the face of a unanimous pledge by the representatives of Italy, France, England and the United States that the shipping of the world would be used for the common cause.

PLEDGE GIVEN.

This pledge was given at the meeting of the inter-allied economic council just ended in Paris. The United States was represented by E. R. Stevens of the Shipping Board.

Sir Robert Cecil, minister of blockade, represented England. Maisteris Clementel and Luncheur represented France, Premier Orlando of Italy and Minister Crispi spoke for Italy. Everything but the feeding of belligerents and the invaded sections, it was decided, must give way to troop movements.

The decision represents an heroic sacrifice on the part of both Italy and France, according to information received here. Italy's food stores are again critically low. Despite this, she has turned over all available vessels to the cause. It is vigorously denied in Italian quarters that any vessels are being held idle or that, as has been charged, wheat for macaroni is shipped to Italy, manufactured and returned here.

The manufacture of macaroni in Italy, it is stated, has long been forbidden.

Both England and France have already turned over every available vessel for the transport of troops.

The fruit company which demurs to the commandeering of its vessels maintains a large number.

Snowy White Clothes Without Scrubbing

No matter how big the wash or how soiled the linen, 20 Mule Team Borax Soap Chips will put your clothes on the line snowy white—with all the hard work of wash day left out. It's the Borax in that does it! It softens the water and loosens the dirt so that the pure soap can dissolve it away. Next washday use 22 Mule Team Borax Soap Chips this way:

Make a Soap Jelly by adding three tablespoonfuls of Chips to a quart of boiling water. Put enough of this solution into the wash-water to make a good suds and soak or boil clothes as usual. Will not shrink woolens or injure fine fabrics. An 8 oz. package of 20 Mule Borax Soap Chips equals 25c worth or ordinary laundry soap.

It's the Borax with the soap that does the work.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS AND WIFE RECONCILED

Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, from a picture taken expressly to show how she looks in "real life."

New York, May 3.—Douglas Fairbanks, the movie star, and his wife have become completely reconciled, according to news received here from Los Angeles. It is reported that Mary Pickford, who in private life is Mrs. Owen Moore, brought about the reconciliation.

Fairbanks, who is winding up his work booming the sale of Liberty bonds, is due to arrive in Los Angeles early next week, combined with the fact that the Fairbanks home at Hollywood, Cal., is being prepared for occupancy, bears out the reported reconciliation.

BOSTON BABIES MAKING FINE SHOWING

Percentage of Healthy Infants Unusually Large—Big Impetus for Campaign

By CONSTANCE WILLIAMS.

Babies, babies, everywhere; in the streets and on the cars. The sunshine has brought them out and they are all going to be weighed and measured in order that Uncle Sam may know how his children are, and what the American standard of childhood and future citizenship is.

The baby weighing campaign received a new impetus with the warmth of sunshine, and babies that are out for their daily airing stop in naturally at the nearest station to be weighed and measured—a thing that every child under five must have done some time during the next three weeks.

A house-to-house canvass in the Back Bay district has brought the greatest number of returns in any district—in comparison with its population. It is the easiest district to cover, according to its chairman, Mrs. David Cheever, because there are fewer children, and because the mothers realize the necessity for the action that is expected of them.

CANVASS A SUCCESS.

The house-to-house canvass has proven to be such a success here, though, that it is to be tried in other sections of the city, and it is hoped that it will have similar results. The only reason that it has not been tried so far is the difficulty of reaching all the mothers in the congested districts, and the lack of literature that is foreign in others where they understand.

The babies that have been weighed and measured in the station at No. 355 Marlboro street have so far been pretty well up to the standard that has been set for children of their ages.

But of the fourteen that were weighed there little William Barbour, the two-year-old son of Mr. Thomas Barbour of No. 12 Hereford street, was found to be perfect. "More than perfect," perhaps he ought to be characterized, for Billy is a big boy for his age. Beautifully proportioned in every way, he measures 36½ inches, while most of the children of his age are only 34 inches tall. His weight, too, finds him twelve whole pounds ahead of most of the children in the station. He scales tip at 38½ pounds instead of the expected 27½ pounds.

Billy is a bright boy, too, for he has a big mind to match his big body, and Uncle Sam will be proud of him yet. It won't be long before he will be a big man, and he will make just the kind of man that his country needs.

MAJORITY NORMAL.

But there are lots of them just like him—perhaps not as large, but just as healthy and after all it's health that counts. At the station in the Massachusetts Nurses' Home on Charles street, where fourteen children were weighed and measured, the majority were found to be normal. One little fellow of three years had never been out of his bed before, though he had spent every minute of it in the city. In another family in which there were nine children, those who were brought into the station were all average in spite of the fact that they had never had proper food or care.

Taking the work of the campaign for the different precincts the last two days have been rather unsuccessful. But the first part of any campaign is apt to go slowly, and sometimes it is just as well, as then the leaders of this one pointed out to me. The workers get a better start if they are not rushed, and the latter part of the three weeks' work will probably go much more smoothly in consequence.

New places are being made, though, in order to speed up the work of weighing all of Boston's 75,000 babies in the next three weeks.

WAR ON MYSTIC 'GUARDIANS' OF SOLDIERS

By International News Service.

New York, May 3.—District Attorney Edward A. Swann caused the first arrest yesterday in his campaign to drive out of New York psychics and others who are praying upon the mothers of soldiers.

"Also-Neith-Nepay" Cochran is the name given by one of the women arrested. She lived at No. 514 West One Hundred and Fourteenth street, and is known as the "Cryptic Name Woman." She was held in $500 bail.

Mrs. Ada Brady, a city detective, by clever work, obtained from Mrs. Cochran evidence in her own handwriting.

Detective Brady posed as the mother of a son in the aviation forces. Mrs. Cochran is alleged to have made predictions of what she could do to protect the boy. She gave Mrs. Brady a "cryptic" name which she said symbolized "Supreme." She charged a fee of $5.

District Attorney Swann said last night that Pierre A. Bernard "the Great and Omnipotent Om" and every one connected with his work in any way would be driven out of the business.

BORN IN GERMANY, BUT 69 YEARS AN AMERICAN

New York, May 3.—August Kasnia, seventy years old, who works on a municipal coal barge and lives in Hoboken, was before Captain Hull in the federal building. He was born in Germany and came here when he was one year old. He has voted for years, is paying $20 a month instalments on Liberty Bonds and lost two teeth recently in convincing a defiant enemy alien that it is dangerous to vilify this country. Captain Hull decided recently that Kasnia is technically an enemy alien. He paroled him, however, and Washington will be asked to forget his accident of birth.

GERMANY IS BLOCKING SWISS TREATY RENEWAL

Paris, May 3.—Negotiations between Germany and Switzerland for the renewal of the economic agreement are proceeding tediously, said a dispatch from Berne to the Petit Parisien. Directors of the Swiss Federal Railway fear to break in upon their coal reserves, the dispatch added.

Switzerland has been getting her coal supply from Germany. Germany, taking advantage of this condition of affairs, has been attempting coercive measures.

MANICURE DIES AFTER ANAESTHETIC BY DENTIST

New York, May 3.—Miss Ida Targart of No. 211 West One Hundred and Ninth street, a manicurist, died yesterday afternoon in a dentist chair, shortly after an anaesthetic had been given by Dr. Frederick Ottslinger of No. 89 West Fortieth street. The dentist said she became unconscious and she did not revive. Patrolman Joseph Cech summoned Dr. Henderson of New York Hospital, who said there were no suspicious circumstances.

PELLETIER FREES MOTHER AND BABY FROM JAIL

Mrs. Ida Stern, thirty, of Dorchester, with her infant baby in her arms, was released from the city prison and returned to her home, where her seven young children were awaiting her, as the result of District Attorney Pelletier's aid.

The woman had been found guilty of larceny early in the day at the Dorchester Court. She appealed, and her bail was set at $500. Her husband went to the office of District Attorney Pelletier and pleaded with him to return the mother to her home.

U. S. FARM UNIT NOW BUSY IN FRANCE

Harold L. Frost, Writing as German Gun Shells Paris, Tells of Plans for Work

Harold L. Frost of Arlington, a trustee of the Massachusetts Agricultural College and head of the first American agricultural unit to go to France, has arrived safely and entered enthusiastically upon the big work of directing a system of farms that are to supply with vegetables the hospitals caring for the American wounded. In a letter to Mrs. Frost, dated Thursday, April 25, at Paris, he relates interesting experiences incident to his preparations for the task ahead of him. The letter follows:

"Am here waiting final instructions, which I will probably get tomorrow. I understand the farms are picked out, plowed, which is very fortunate, as the season is quite advanced. The lawns are being mowed in Paris, the trees are in full foliage, pansies, polyanthus and early flowers are in bloom; cherries, plums and horse chestnuts are in blossom.

FARMS WELL KEPT UP.

"The farms in this part of France are well kept and not spoiled to the eye by neglected machinery left in the fields the Fall before, nor dilapidated buildings, run-down fields and fences, ditches overgrown or in brush. It was a surprise to see how well the fields and farms have been kept up during these three years of terrific warfare. It simply shows what the women and old men and boys can do.

"All day Tuesday we were on our boat. Anchored till noon, sailing from noon until 6.30 p. m., and the most thrilling trip I even took or expect to take. Welcomed by the waving of hands, handkerchiefs, flags or anything at hand, whistling by boats and steam engines, and finally the shouting of welcome by hundreds of our American soldiers, sailors and marines who have been there ahead of us.

"One lawyer from Montana said that if he was even sent right back he felt amply repaid for the expense he had to go. His motive is well worth relating.

"Name, West; about fifty years old; handsome, bright and most pleasant company; six feet tall, slender and well built, a fine head, with a good head of gray hair. Had tried three times to get into the army, the last time in aviation, but threw down. Finally he lands as a Y. M. C. A. secretary, hoping to get a hut at the front. He decided to me that at the first opportunity he would get a wounded soldier's gun, go over the top with the boys and get a hoche if possible.

LONG RANGE GUN BUSY.

"Yesterday this is a perfect calmness and at the same time hear three loud reports from explosions which, they tell us, mean that the big German gun has started work again after a few days' rest. However, there is no excitement, although many thousands have left Paris, leaving plenty of room in the hotels.

"Got breakfast and reported at headquarters, where we found several details to see to. Registered at the U. S. Provost Marshal's, registered with the Y. M. C. A. secretary, and had passport looked over. Wednesday and Thursday have cleaned the slate and today I have a conference at Red Cross headquarters to determine just what it is we have to do and be.

"Wednesday we had some trouble keeping our living expenses down and were told to go to the Y. W. C. A. for a dinner which would cost a dollar. We had a most enjoyable time, meeting women from all the States and of varied occupations. There were a number of the telephone operators sent over from America. I sat beside a woman doctor from New Jersey who had been here some time, a Dr. Moorehouse.

BIG FIELD FOR WORK.

"While at our port of entry I met three infantry captains, two medical men located at base hospitals and one captain of an engineering company. They said there was most urgent need of men in just our line, and every opportunity for carrying on the work. Vegetables are most assuredly wanted by the soldiers, and impossible to get.

"Some of the officers have been ordered to cultivate from three to five acres at their camps, and they have no idea how to do it. At the hospitals there are plenty of men available, but no one to direct them, and land can be easily secured. We surely will find plenty of chances to make ourselves useful if we can only untangle ourselves from a headquarters before Dame Nature beats us to it."

PLAN SUNDAY MOVIE SHOW TO AID WARD 18 SOLDIERS

Sunday evening the Soldiers and Sailors' Relief Society of Ward 18, Dorchester, will hold an entertainment and movie show in the Hamilton Theatre, Meeting House Hill. The proceeds of which will go towards the fund to purchase comfort kits for the young men of the Ward in the various branches of the service.

Lieutenant Daniel T. O'Connell has appointed the following committee: Thomas McMahon, chairman; Mrs. Peter F. McCarthy, Miss Grace Alley, Miss Marion Hlackden. Representative Charles Thornton, Miss Louise McVey, and Michael Lydon, the owner of the theatre, who has donated the house and many of the pictures for the evening, he being a member of the society.

FORMER DORCHESTER HIGH ATHLETE IS WOUNDED

The latest casualty list contains the name of Lorne W. Kaye of No. 20 Dix street, Dorchester, among the wounded. He was renowned as an athlete during his school days at Dorchester High, being one of the best left ends the school football team ever had, as well as being a star jumper and hurdler of the track team.

He is the son of Mrs. Edith P. Kaye, and prior to enlisting was employed by the Edison Company.

He was a member of Company B, Machine Gun Unit, of the 103rd Regiment. He has a brother in the service.

GETS $1 HEART BALM; ASKED $10,000 FLIES SERVICE FLAG OF FIVE STARS

By SYBIL WARNE.

It was a tiny house in a long row of houses, equally as tiny, way out on Commonwealth avenue, Allston, and the only thing that distinguished it from the others, was the group of five stars on the service flag, flying from the window. The owner of the flag, Mrs. Adelaide Beyerlieb, a little, white-haired lady with soft, brown eyes, smiled inquiringly at me from the door.

"You're the story of my stars! Why, of course, come right in. Four of them are for my great-grandchildren, and the fifth is my stepson. He was the only one, who went from here, but," and she looked at me anxiously, "don't you think that I have a right to the flag just the same?"

I assured her that I thought that she had five rights to it, and she smiled brightly.

PROUD OF HER BOYS.

"Bless you for saying so. Sometimes I feel that perhaps I ought not to fly it, but they are my boys, and I am proud of them, so I want something that will tell other people about them. I wrote to them and told them that I had put out a flag with a star for each of them on it, and I hope that sometimes "over there" they will think of me and their flag.

"If I had five more who could go to France, it would make me all the happier to be able to give them to their country.

"My husband, Henry Beyerlieb, who was a captain in the Civil War, was born in Sweden, but I am an American, through and through. It made me feel very proud when my stepson enlisted last year. Of course, he would have been drafted anyway, but it seems so much braver not to wait for your country to have to ask you to help her. When I wrote to my boy today, I told him that I wanted him to be a brave soldier like his father, and come back to me a captain."

FRIEND OF KING PETER.

It is an interesting fact that the father of the young soldier was at one time engaged in fighting the same enemy as his son is now. He led the free and easy life of a soldier of fortune. When the Franco-Prussian war broke out, he enlisted in the French Foreign Legion. King Peter of Servia, at that time, pretender to the throne, took young Beyerlieb under his friends, and even when separated by thousands of miles, Peter never forgot the brave, handsome lad, who fought beside him for the cause of France.

And so, in 1913, five of Henry Beyerlieb's relatives, moved by the same love of country which characterized his bravery and devotion to duty, have donned the uniform of the world and many some of them to fight may-be, on the same spot where so many years ago, he, too, offered his life for a great cause, and—five stars on a service flag, mark their going.

"When I go to bed, I say to myself, can it be possible that even now one of my boys is lying dead on the battlefield?" said Mrs. Beyerlieb. "I try to put such thoughts out of my mind for they are cowardly, if one loves her country and is willing to make every sacrifice."

SWEEPING PROBE OF AIRCRAFT CHARGES

Treason Hinted at in Report; Borglum Asked to Submit Proof of Accusations

By JAMES R. NOURSE,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, May 3.—Charges against officials responsible for the aircraft program of the United States were repeated in the Senate and before the Senate Military Affairs Committee.

A sweeping investigation of the entire aircraft production, with possible exposure of criminal conspiracy in the expenditure of nearly one billion dollars, appropriated by Congress for the building of airplanes, now appears to be inevitable.

The military affairs committee stands ready to institute such an investigation. It is waiting, however, upon the Department of Justice, being of the opinion that the investigation should be undertaken by that arm of the government, which is empowered to prosecute criminally any persons who may be found to have been guilty of malfeasance.

If the Department of Justice, by direction of the President or the Attorney-General, does not take up the matter, then the Military Affairs Committee will call witnesses who may be able to tell the reasons for the alleged breakdown of America's aircraft program.

DEVELOPMENT IN CASE.

The developments in the matter were these:

1—Gutzon Borglum, sculptor, who made an investigation of the situation under a commission from the President, appeared in secret before the Senate committee and repeated charges which he made in a report filed with the President. This report has never been given to the public, although Borglum first published to certain newspapers portions of his findings.

2—Borglum told the committee enough to convince its members that if he can prove his charges, there is treason, conspiracy and malfeasance, if not treason, in the administration of the aircraft program. No names were given to the committee by Borglum.

3—Borglum was instructed by the committee to get statements from persons from whom he obtained his information and secure their permission to do this. He has been trying to find the consent of the persons to appear as witnesses. Borglum agreed to do this.

4—Senator Hitchcock, in the course of a stirring debate in the Senate, severely criticised the Production Board with having wilfully deceived and misled the President and the country in regard to the aeroplanes situation, and particularly regarding the Liberty motor.

A CONFIDENCE GAME.

Senator Hitchcock, acting chairman, told the Senate that the aircraft board had perpetrated "a gigantic confidence game upon the American people." He denounced the extravagant claims for the Liberty motor by asserting that the motor is not a new creation, but was adapted from a well-known automobile motor manufactured in Detroit. The board agreed to pay the motor manufacturers approximately $800,000 for its use, he said.

Senator King of Utah added spice to the debate by exclaiming that he had been told "somebody ought to be shot" for the way the government had been betrayed by those in authority over the aircraft program.

Senator Hitchcock said he was perfectly willing to begin an investigation, but expressed the belief that the Department of Justice should be the first to act.

CALL FOR FIVE HUNDRED MECHANICAL DRAFTSMEN

Five hundred mechanical draftsmen are needed immediately in Washington in the drafting rooms of the Engineering Division and to help secure them the chief of the engineering bureau of the Ordnance Department in Washington will be in Boston Monday and Tuesday at Room 109, State House, where he will interview all candidates. Captains Hugh Pastoriza and Lieutenant G. S. DeNeveil will be the officers here.

For those who cannot immediately qualify a special school for draftsmen will be conducted by the Department of University Extension, Massachusetts Board of Education. No tuition will be charged, only a small fee being necessary to cover the cost of materials. Captain Hugh Pastoriza and Lieutenant G. S. DeNeveil will be the officers here.

BRITAIN MAY BUY LIQUOR TRADE FOR 2 BILLIONS

London, May 3.—The English, Scotch and Irish committees that have been considering the financial aspects of the purchase and control of the liquor trade in the United Kingdom, has issued a report proposing the sum of $2,000,000,000 and $2,500,000,000 as the purchase price. The report avoids questions of profit. The Chronicle, in commenting upon the proposed purchase, says it would enable the government to reduce the number of licenses, insure a wholesome beverage, accommodate labor and eliminate the demoralizing influence of exploiters.

$425,000,000 having been surpassed already by $15,000,000. The Dallas and San Francisco districts also claim over-subscriptions, but official figures have not yet been received. If this is correct the entire West beyond the Mississippi has gone over the top on the big drive. In the former loans the Eastern States were first to oversubscribe. Subscriptions in New York district have reached $750,000,000, but are still $150,000,000 short of the minimum quota.

Revere is the largest Massachusetts city to win an honor flag today. The Italian committee put Revere over the top by bringing in $100,000 to-subscriptions, but official figures have not yet been received. 1,100 PLACES OVERSUBSCRIBED.

There are today 1,100 cities and towns in New England, out of 1,002, which have oberausbcribed their quotas. The oversubscriptions reach all the way from 1 to 500 per cent., the honor mark going to Dunstable. This may be not only a record for the New England district, but for the nation.

Maine has 345 communities that have won honor flags, but New Hampshire's percentage is higher, only thirty of the 240 cities and towns having failed to win flags.

Additions to the list today are, besides Revere, the following Massachusetts towns: Hadley, Sunderland, Warwick, Wendell, Northfield, Vermont presents Wells River, Pittsfield, Northfield and Warren. Connecticut towns include Brooklyn and Canton.

Maine towns made a whirlwind finish on the twenty-second day of the campaign. Chairman Rounds today reported thirty-five towns as having passed their quota and having won an honor flag. They include Amherst, Berwick, Biddeford, Burnham, Byron, Canton, Chester, Dedham, Etna, Eastbrook, East Livermore, Eagle Lake, Franklin, Guilford, Greenbush, Houlton, Hartford, Linneus, Livermore, Long Island, Mexico, North Berwick, North Yarmouth, Peru, Poland, Princeton, Porter, Ripley, Roxbury, St. Albans, Sedgwick, South Bristol, Southwest Harbor, St. Agatha and Stetson.

Upton, Me., has been awarded three stars by the honor flag committee, and two stars each go to Whiting, Vt., and Unionville, Ct. Towns which won single stars, showing that they went 100 per cent. over their minimum allotments are Webster and Sudbury, in this State; Jewett City, Tariffville, Cheshire, Newington and Winsor, Ct.; Chester, Rumney and Trichester, N. H.; Chelsea, Vt., and Corinth, Me.

STATE SUBSCRIPTIONS.

State subscriptions for the last twenty-four hours were: For Massachusetts, $14,380,000; Connecticut, $1,128,000; Rhode Island, $899,000; Maine, $738,000; New Hampshire, $554,000; Vermont, $523,000.

The individual subscribers are set at 1,007,313, or an average of nearly one in seven for the residents of New England.

The subscription totals for the different States show that New Hampshire took the lead from Connecticut on percentages. The detailed standing of States is as follows:

State.	Total Subscriptions.	Per cent. Quota
New Hampshire..	$12,398,000	122
Connecticut	49,139,000	121
Maine	13,004,000	119
Vermont	7,100,000	107
Massachusetts	164,729,000	101.5
Rhode Island	22,880,000	99
	$262,544,000	104.5

The total over night is the second $18,000,000 day during the campaign, the first having been the third day of reports.

If subscriptions today and tomorrow are up to the average of the last two days, the $300,000,000 mark will be reached for the New England district, but to reach $350,000,000 the subscriptions must be much heavier. The committee confidently expects a subscription of $300,000,000, and is working earnestly to bring the mark to the higher figure; possibly even to $400,000,000.

GERMAN DESCENDANTS ACTIVE.

The Liberty Loan Committee of Americans of German Ancestry started for Lawrence this afternoon in their "Whirlwind Squadron" composed of five automobiles well decorated with American flags, Liberty Loan posters and banners. They will attend the big mass meeting to be held in Lawrence this evening in Turn Hall.

As Lawrence is one of the leading centres in New England of Americans of German ancestry, the local Liberty Loan Committee is making this big rally one of the features of the closing hours of the campaign. Henry St. Linger, chairman of the Lawrence Liberty Loan Committee of Americans of German Ancestry; G. F. Russell, chairman of the Lawrence Liberty Loan Committee, and Paul R. Clay of the committee are in charge of the arrangements.

The speakers will be Dr. Adolph A. Berle, Judge Michael J. Murray, Jacob Milch and Thomas F. Vahey, in addition to the local speakers.

Americas nof German ancestry in Lawrence have formed a permanent committee of thirty-four members fr othe duration of the war to work for Liberty Loans, the Red Cross and similar objects.

Prof. Frank Vogel, chairman for this section, expects the subscriptions of Americans of German ancestry to go well over the $2,000,000 mark. Incomplete returns alrgady total over $1,800,000.

In Plymouth Mr. V. H. Forstmeyer reports that 99 Americans of German ancestry have bought bonds amounting to $7,450, an almost 100 per cent. subscription.

RHODE ISLAND'S SHOWING.

Subscriptions and pledges reported through the Rhode Island Woman's Committee to Liberty Loan head headquarters, Mrs. Walter A. Peck, chairman, are as follows: Cranston, $20,000; Pawtucket, $102,000; East Providence, $3,100; Bristol, $10,600; Slatersville, $16,800; Warwick, $13,900; West Warwick, $15,650; Barrington, $85,000; Coventry, $45,900; Johnston, $16,800; Woonsocket, $52,150; Central Falls, $25,650; Warren, $23,750; Exeter, North Kingston, $13,200; Jamestown, $7,600; Little Compton, $1,400; Westerly, $38,500; South Kingston, $22,500; Smithfield, $2,800; North Providence, $55,900; Newport, $237,735; Ward 1, $2,250; Ward 2, $67,250; Ward 3, $13,200; Ward 4, $3,200; Ward 5, $6,000; Ward 6, $1,250; Ward 7, $9,800; Ward 8, $5,850; Ward 10, $5,750.

Westerly's subscriptions on Thursday of $7,050 was from ninety-three subscribers.

Three $100 subscriptions on Wednesday helped to swell the day's receipts for the Carver women to $4,700, making their total to date $20,000.

Harwich, Mrs. H. D. Handy, chairman, with a $10,000 subscription on Wednesday added in all $11,150 to its total.

Leominster, with $4,650; Malden, $8,550; Marlboro, $3,950; North Easton, $5,100; Plymouth, $13,800; Revere, $4,400; Scituate, $2,100; Taunton, $5,950, were some of Thursday's substantial subscriptions.

Whitman, Mrs. George A. Clift chairman, reports $6,300 from 141 subscribers on Wednesday, with "more to hear from."

OHIO HITS THE TOP

Today's dispatches from Cleveland show that Ohio also has reached its allotment, having a total of $167,935,700. The city of Cleveland, with a quota of $55,000,000, has exceeded that mark by at least $1,000,000, and raised its honor flag at noon today. Every county in the Cleveland area is now over.

The Cleveland district has awarded 1,524 honor flags.

At Erie, Pa., 25,000 industrial workers have bought bonds out of a total of 27,000. In 150 industrial plants, 52 are 100 per cent. subscribed.

Fair Weather for Finish of Big Loan Drive

Regular Liberty Loan weather for the finish of the great drive.

Local Forecaster John W. Smith announced a cheerful forecast today for Boston and vicinity, thus:

"Fair and not much change in temperature tonight and Saturday. Moderate, variable winds."

For his general weather gossip the forecaster added that it was fair over the country, with exception of cloudiness in some of the northern States, also Canada.

The general temperature is seasonable, although some spots in Eastern Canada still linger below freezing. Cochrane, Ont., for example, is 24 above, or eight below freezing. It is the coldest place on our weather map.

The hottest place in the United Sates is Key West, Fla., at 74. New England's warmest and coldest are; Boston 53, Greenville, Me., 38.

KAISER'S EFFIGY GETS KICKING AND DUCKING

Yonkers, N. Y., May 3.—Homer White, one of Pershing's fifty sent to America to help the Liberty Loan, was cheered by 10,000 as he threw an effigy of the Kaiser into the river. The effigy had been exhibited and every bond buyer was entitled to kick it.

6,500 GERMAN SUBJECTS AT LARGE IN ENGLAND

London, May 3.—Joynson Hicks, addressing an Empire Union meeting, said 6,500 German subjects were still free in Great Britain engaged in commerce. He urged they all be interned and later deported.

MYSTERY OF WRECKED AUTO IS CLEARED UP

Through an item in the AMERICAN, the Lexington police have cleared the mystery surrounding the wrecked automobile with hand-cuffs bolted inside the door, found in Lexington. The car was wrecked in Concord Junction while Deputy Sheriff Samuel Brown of Providence, was on his way to Camp Devens, Ayer, with a slacker. The draft evader is said to have been badly injured. A. C. Frizzle, a Concord Junction garage man, took the wrecked machine and made some repairs on it. Two men were hired by Sheriff Brown, who gave them $12.00 to pay Frizzle. They took the car without paying Frizzle, and abandoned it in Lexington.

TRIED TO PIN IRON CROSS ON YOUNG WOMAN

Newark, N. J., May 3.—Because he tried to pin an iron cross on the shirtwaist of Rena Logan, a waitress at the Hotel Richmond, Hans Doneckar went to jail. He was a waiter in the Hotel Plaza. He told Captain Roger B. Hull in the Port Alien Enemy Bureau that he bought the decoration at a German bazaar in 1914. He was born in Germany. When he was arrested papers in his rooms included a list of prominent Germans in New York. Emil Reincers, auditor of the Hotel Latham, New York, was also arrested.

SENTENCE CHILDREN WHO TRIED TO WRECK TRAIN

Fargo, N. D., May 3.—Two children were sentenced in the Juvenile Court here for attempting to wreck a Northern Pacific train. They had told officials of the railroad they had stolen locks from switches and planned the wreck of the North Coast Limited, carrying 300 passengers, near Casselton, Tuesday, just to "see what would happen."

The North Coast Limited was derailed, four cars and the locomotive jumping the track. No one was seriously injured.

37 INFANTILE PARALYSIS VICTIMS IN LOWELL

Lowell, May 3.—Thirty-seven patients suffering from infantile paralysis were examined by workers of the Harvard Infantile Paralysis Committee in the rooms of the People's Club. Seven cases which had never been reported to the Board of Health or to the representative of the committee were among them. The clinic was arranged by Mrs. Blanche Harriman, orthopedic nurse for this district. Dr. Arthur Lesg of Boston performed the diagnosis.

Electrocuted in Factory.

Stamford, Ct., May 3.—John Sheely, thirty-two, was electrocuted at the British Manufacturing Company plant, through contact with a high tension wire.

Secrets of Good Clothes Making

USUAL WAY

Rushing the pressing through with large, heavy machine iron, which stretches and pulls the cloth and "boils" out the fabric.

"MORSE-MADE" WAY

Hand iron (used exclusively) leaves fabric dry and permits many fine touches in shaping

No. 5*—Rush v. Thorough Making

Like the German "excuse" for the invasion of Belgium that "necessity knows no law" and they "could not wait" to go around, so the "necessity" of many clothing manufacturers to make unreasonable profits prevents their taking the time to make clothes properly.

Rush methods never made good clothes, and never will. And good clothes, you'll agree, are good all the way through. Clothes that stand up and keep their shape through the severe test of long, hard wear.

Heretofore it has been hard for the average man to pick clothes well made. But times have changed. Now garments, by Government request, are shorn of the outside camouflage of cuffs, pleats, belts, and must stand or fall on the essentials —the making.

Cuts above show but one of the ways get-rich-quick manufacturers "cut corners."

The "rapid fire" machine iron stretches and pulls the cloths, and is incapable of the finer touches. The hand iron, used exclusively in making "Morse" clothes, makes of pressing a fine art and a lasting one. Consult any "Morse" salesman for "points" to watch for when buying clothes. Then you'll understand why he can afford to give a rigid "money back" guarantee with every "Morse-Made" garment.

Correct designing plus thorough making—in shops located in the same building where retail sales are made—alone make possible the never-failing quality, style, wear of "Morse-Made" garments. "Academy Clothes" start at $17.50; "Clothes of Refinement" from $30 up.

260 OF CLERGY ON WAR CASUALTY LIST

Fifty-eight Protestant ministers and divinity students have already been killed in France and 302 ministers' sons have died in the war up to September, 1917, according to a report submitted by the Rev. Dr. W. C. W. Wendte, registrar of ministerial war losses, No. 25 Beacon street, Boston.

WANTS TO HEAR SHELLS BURSTING, SO RE-ENLISTS

After spending, off and on, ten months in the trenches in a British regiment, Joseph Henderson of No. 104 East Fifth street, South Boston, concluded he could not stay any longer out of the big fight, and enlisted in the marine corps. He was honorably discharged from the British regiment, but says he misses the noise of bursting shells.

HOTEL MAN IS SEIZED BY U. S. OFFICIALS

Daniel W. Sylvester, sixty-five years old, and for the past forty years one of the most prominent residents of Cape Ann, was arrested at Annisquam by Federal officers, acting under orders from Assistant United States District Attorney Judd Dewey, who is in charge of all work in this district regarding violations of the espionage act.

Sylvester was brought to the Federal Building after Commissioner Hayes had adjourned his court, but he heard the plea of Sylvester, which was "Not guilty," to a charge of violating the espionage act.

He was held in $1,000 for a hearing a week from Thursday.

He is specially charged with uttering disrespectful remarks about the country, the army in general and the conduct of the war.

Sylvester, who for twenty-five years has conducted a hotel at Annisquam, denied he had made any such utterances, that his loyalty was steadfast, and that he did not remember making any comment about the army that was not respectful.

"If I have made any such remarks, I must have been intoxicated, for I have no knowledge of it," said the defendant. He further stated he had never been in court before in his life.

Assistant District Attorney Dewey demanded a substantial bond for a continued hearing, during which time an investigation will be made into all aspects of the case.

Mr. Dewey has recently returned from Washington, and has made it known to officials at the Federal building that the traducers of the country, the flag and all that it stands for, will from now on be prosecuted to the limit.

WOMAN SEEKS POSITION AS WAR FLIER

By MARIE DUNBAR.

Hazel Drew McGreal, who wants to be a war aviatrix and who is in Boston to make her home here, wrote the following note to the Boston Canadian and British recruiting station the other day:

What are the possibilities for a young woman to enter the British Flying Corps? I am twenty-six years of age, have a college education and am a graduate of a secretarial school as well. I am an expert correspondent, psychologist, lecturer, public speaker and also an advertising alchemist of merit. Is there any other branch of the service open to women? My stepfather's uncle was Admiral Sir John Hall of the British navy. I shall appreciate a prompt reply.

AMERICANS TO FLY.

Capt. C. L. O'Brien has forwarded the application to the Flying Corps in New York.

"I don't see anything out of the ordinary in what I have done," said Mrs. McGreal, who was very much disturbed that any word of her action should reach the public. "I have tried to enter every branch of the service and have many applications in. I want to go where my services can be utilized to the best advantages.

"I really and seriously wish to enter the Flying Corps and am anxiously awaiting the reply of the department. Men enter the flying corps without any knowledge of aviation. Why shouldn't women. Their nerve is just as good as that of men and their endurance much better.

Mrs. McGreal feels that the war has opened many fields of work which are waiting for the earnest hands of women.

VALUABLE TIME LOST.

"I feel that if I could spend a half a day in instructing the soldiers on concentration lines that it would do a great deal of good. There is a great deal of time lost by the men not realizing that the first essential of real work is concentration."

Mrs. McGreal says that she has a thorough knowledge of automobiles and has often driven one at the rate of sixty miles an hour. She is a graduate of Packer Collegiate Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y. She is now residing on Hammond terrace, Allston.

MRS. HAZEL DREW McGREAL, who has made application for appointment as war aviatrix.

REFUSED TO SELL HOME; COURT EVICTS AGED WOMAN

Providence, May 3.—After defying the court orders to vacate her Smithfield avenue home on condemnation proceedings brought by the New Haven road and necessitating a force of ten deputy sheriffs to place her in custody while they cleared the house of furniture, and boarded up the dwelling Mrs. Ann Cardarelli, an aged woman, was brought before the Sixth District Court charged with "obstructing the law" and placed in the custody of her daughter, Mrs. Angelina Polumbo on promise to keep away from her former home and obey the mandate of the court.

The aged woman is said to have refused an offer of $2,300 for her home by appraisers for the railroad company and later to have refused an increase of $o,000, made by the railroad company. She is said to have demanded $25,000 paid in cash, "on her fence," as she did not do business with the banks.

FLAGS HALF MASTED FOR EASTPORT SOLDIER

Eastport, Me., May 3.—All flags in Eastport are at half-mast today as a tribute to Sergeant Fred Mitchell, the first Eastport soldier killed in action overseas, and whose death occurred April 21, as reported to his mother, Mrs. Mary Ann Mitchell, by the War Department. Mitchell was duty sergeant of Company I, 103rd Infantry, having been recently promoted from supply and mess sergeant.

Sergeant Mitchell was a veteran soldier, thirty-six years old, and enlisted thirteen years ago in Company I, Second Maine. He was with his command at Laredo, Tex., during the Mexican border trouble, and was one of forty-eight Eastport men mustered into Federal service for overseas duty in April, 1917, and reached France in October after training at Camp Keys and Camp Bartlett.

6,325,000 LINED UP FOR WORLD'S BIGGEST FIGHT

By International News Service.

Washington, May 3.—The greatest battle of the ages impends upon the western front, military experts here predicted. The full reserves of the Allies and the enemy, it was stated, have been drawn up in preparation for the tremendous struggle.

It is estimated the Germans have available 2,650,000 men. Against this number, it is said, the Allies will be able to throw at least 2,675,000.

The brunt of the fighting will occur along the fifty mile front with Amiens as its pivotal point, the line of battle extending all the way from the sector north of Ypres to a point south of Armentieres.

ENEMY MUST ACT QUICKLY.

And because the German army must go forward if it is to save itself, and because its present position will not long remain tenable prediction is made that the gigantic battle will be fully under way within three or four days. Weeks may be consumed, and longer, before a decision is reached.

The struggle, it is foreseen, will center within two main theatres, the one in Flanders and the other in shell-torn Plains of Picardy. Confident assertion is made that an British will retire no further, though even now, as some see it, the preclude to the new Flanders battle is being heard in the German artillery activity in that quarter.

French and Americans, it is indicated, are at the forefront in this other theatre east of Amiens. Haig's force is made up principally of British and British-Colonial troops, some French veterans and a fair number of American auxiliaries, including ambulance, engineering and signal corps units.

ALLIES THE VICTORS.

The situation today, military experts here contend, can fairly be described as victory for the Allies, in that the enemy's effort to repeat the spectacular drive of von Kluck's army in 1914 has been effectively checked, while on the other hand the enemy's position has been rendered more and more precarious.

Political conditions in Germany, as well as the military situation at the front, it is pointed out, have contributed impulses in the enemy command compelling another attempt to break through.

American troops are going overseas five times faster than they were, due to the decision to brigade them with the British and French.

Gratifying progress, it is declared, has already been made in the shipment of American troops, though it is denied that any of those recently sent are already in the battle line.

MAN AND WIFE PLEAD GUILTY IN ARSON CASE

Morris and Dora Bluhm pleaded guilty in the Superior Criminal Court, before Judge Keating, to being accessory to two fires which were set in house No. 174 Princeton street, East Boston, owned by the Bluhms. It is claimed that as the result of the arson the Bluhms received insurance to the amount of $1,000 after the first fire and $1,553 following the second fire. Reuben Levine and Harry Green, both of whom are serving prison sentences, are said to have been concerned in the incendiary acts. The Bluhms will come up for sentence on May 13.

Mother to Get $1000 for Every Child She Bears

By International News Service.

New York, May 3.—Mrs. Marion Ewing McCollom is to receive a gift of $1,000 for every child she brings into the world. Provision for the payment of this bonus for increasing America's population was made in the will of Dr. William Alexander Ewing, who left an estate of $100,000.

GOVERNMENT TO TAKE UP ENTIRE STEEL OUTPUT

Mill Men Take Pledge to Deliver All Their Product for War Use

By International News Service.

New York, May 3. — The Federal government is considering a project which will involve the use for duration of the war of the entire output of every steel plant in the country. Consideration of the new plan, the nature of which was not disclosed, included government control of the steel industry.

The government would not have assumed control of the industry, it was declared, but for assurances given at a conference last Friday and attended by men from every large steel plant, that their entire output was at the country's disposal.

J. Leonard Replogle, director of steel supply of the War Industries Board, was given the desired assurance when he revealed to the steel men sufficient of the government's plan to convince them of the necessity for whole-hearted co-operation.

Director Replogle expressed gratification that he had not been required to exercise the prerogative of commandeering the steel output for war uses. All forms of commercial use of steel must be subordinated to the country's need, if necessary, he declared, and the steel representatives bound themselves by the following pledge:

"For myself, my corporation, or my firm, I pledge the prompt production and delivery of the largest quantity of material in our departments that shall be required by the United States government for the necessities of itself and its allies, and agree that all other lines of our business shall be subordinated to this pledge, and all this in accordance with the war industries board."

This action unifies the warring elements of the steel industry, the greatest single industry in America, and pledges co-ordination for federal purposes of its vast power.

Part of the government's plan for securing the greatest possible production will be put into operation immediately, it was declared. That will consist of taking pig iron from any plant which has a surplus for delivery to another plant which may be short ,thus insuring a full supply and full time work for all plants.

SAYS HUSBAND LEFT HER ON WEDDING DAY

Mrs. Florence E. Anthony of Malden has filed a suit for divorce in the Middlesex Court against her husband, Boyd Anthony, of New Bethlehem, Pa. They were married in Boston March 8, 1913. She alleges that he deserted her the same day. She also asks for the custody of a minor child.

Other suits are: Anna B. Blaisdell of Lowell against Clarence W. Blaisdell, now of Providence, R. I., alleging cruel treatment and non support, and asking for the custody of three children; William H. Simpson of Arlington against Rosalie M. Simpson of Washington, D. C., now stopping in Natick, alleging cruel treatment and desertion; Mrs. Annie E. Webster of Somerville against Charles A. Webster, now of parts unknown, alleging cruel treatment, non support and intoxication, she also asks for the custody of four children.

METHODISTS TO RAISE CHURCH WAR FUND

Every member of the Methodist Church in Greater Boston will be asked to contribute one days' income or salary to the war fund of that denomination on May 24, which will be known as "Income Friday." It is expected to raise in all the Methodist churches of America on that day, many thousands of dollars for this cause.

DEMOCRACY BOSTON, FRIDAY, MAY 3, 1918. LIBERTY

SNIPERS TACKLE TRAINING BY NIGHT

Boys Will Work in Trenches Under Conditions Similar to Actual Fighting

By WILLIAM FLYNN.

Camp Devens, May 3.—Flares, rockets, searchlights and other pyrotechnic paraphernalia are to be used in the night training of the men in the snipers' school that is to start at the cantonment in the near future. The snipers have been indulging in target practice on a new range that was recently opened, and the system of emplacements, trenches, embankments and sniper posts is one of the most elaborate terrain productions in the cantonment.

The night training, however, is to be staged in the trenches under conditions as near similar to those encountered on the battlefields of Europe as possible. The men have shown up well at target practice, and although many of the shooting arrangements are new to most of them, they are expected to be the equal of any snipers in the allied or German armies when their training is finished.

Sniping is one of the most dangerous of all military operations and none but picked men are chosen. Canadian non-commissioned officers who qualified as expert snipers in France was assisting Lieutenant Smith, the instructor, who has started in to teach his second class.

FIELD TRAINING TODAY.

All of the companies in the 151st and 152nd Infantry Brigades are to be tested in field training. The tests, which are to be given by brigade and regimental commanders, will cover practically all phases of the field manoeuvres that have played an important part recently of the infantry regiments at this cantonment, including marching, advance guard, patrols and attack and various other movements which come under the headings. Each company will be marked and rated according to its efficiency, and keen rivalry exists among the men. The tests are scheduled to begin May 7.

The training of the "rookies" who came here in the last draft is being pushed harder than ever and all sorts of strenuous athletic games are being invented by the officers in the depot brigade to aid the men in rounding into shape. The officers have found it of great advantage to combine the initial military work of the new men with the play whenever possible.

One of the new men in the depot brigade is Leo F. Dunn of Augusta, Me., who has already seen service in France. Dunn was formerly a lieutenant in M Co of the 63rd infantry but was honorably retired when Lieutenant-Colonel Dunn, Mayor Casey and the other Boston members of the 101st infantry received their releases.

PLEADED TO GET BACK.

Dunn was under fire at a relieving post when he was told he had been honorably discharged. He returned to his home and pleaded to be allowed to come here in the draft and permission was finally granted him. The former lieutenant is now a private and is proving of much assistance to the officers of the 19th Company in the preliminary drilling of his comrades.

The 19th Company is commanded by Captain C. J. Nolan of Manchester, N. H., and as a result of his efforts and those of Lieutenant William Horan, the company insurance officer, every one of the 251 men in the outfit has subscribed to $10,000 worth of war risk insurance each, the limit allowed by the government.

This company also boasts of a physician and a minister. The physician is Dr. William Martin of North Easton, who aided the army physicians in the preliminary examination of the men when they reached here. The Rev. Frank H. Cheever of Oakdale is the minister, and his name has been added to his list of "fighting parsons."

Nearly all of the training of the men of the 76th Division is now being concentrated on practical methods of warfare. Most of the men in the division have been in training for six months and it is believed they will be fit to enter the trenches shortly after they reach France.

SHOOTING AT ENTANGLEMENTS.

The artillery regiments are now practicing destroying barbed wire entanglements that have been erected on the far side of the artillery range. This is one of the most important branches of artillery work on the other side of the Atlantic. The progress of the artillerymen is being closely followed by Brigadier General William S. McNair, commander of the 151st Artillery Brigade, and the other high officers of his command.

The men of the 204th Infantry, Connecticut regiment, were in communication by wireless with the cantonment today from the regimental camps at Stitt River. Practically the entire regiment spent last night under canvas. The men engaged in field manoeuvres today. They are expected to spend tonight in the field and will probably return to the cantonment tomorrow. The regiment is commanded by Colonel J. S. Herron.

The 301st, 302d and 303d machine gun battalions have received their machine gun carts, ammunition trucks and spare parts wagons, and the men are being instructed now to handle the vehicles.

EDITORIAL

The base hospital at Camp Devens is one of the finest institutions of its kind to be found in the world. The physicians and surgeons rank with the foremost in their respective lines, and the equipment and facilities of the hospital are as complete as the government can make them.

Most of the men in authority at the base hospital are specialists who have made enviable reputations as civilians. Many of them are professors at Harvard, Tufts and other famous medical schools, and a large percentage of them played a prominent part in the administration of the Massachusetts General, Peter Bent Brigham and Boston City Hospitals, the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary and institutions in other parts of the country.

Soldiers sent to the hospital are assured of excellent care and have at their disposal the services of a corps of experts that few civilians have ever had at their command. Most of the physicians and surgeons have given up lucrative practices to do their bit, and the boys at Devens are fortunate to have them there.

TEACHER SENDS MAYFLOWERS FROM CAPE

Boys in Receiving Ship Hospital Get Bouquets Through Efforts of the Y. M. C. A.

By PAUL F. WHELTON.

Aboard the Receiving Ship at Boston, May 3.—Little things like kisses, a glance o' the eye, the well-known "pat on the back," and flowers don't win wars, but they raise Cain with the blue devils and Old Man Dull Care, in whose company men cannot fight.

Some time ago Secretary Lawrence of the Y. M. C. A. branch aboard ship spent three years in the role of a hospital patient. Three years is a long time in jail, it is a longer time in a hospital, and a visit to the sick bay of the receiving ship a short time ago but served to recall the long days and weary nights he put in while an invalid.

The services of a school teacher and her pupils at a town on Cape Cod were enlisted and a consignment of Mayflowers neatly tied in bunches was shortly afterward received by the Y. M. C. A. branch aboard ship.

Secretary A. E. R. Ward was delegated to distribute the flowers in two wards of the sick bay where the more serious cases are confined. He did so and was amazed to find how touched the bluejackets were to receive the blossoms. They were placed beside the various beds in the ward.

"Reminds me of my home on Cape Cod," said one of the convalescent tars.

The school teacher on Cape Cod can have anything in those two wards that she desires. She and her pupil-flower-pickers have made a hit with the bluejackets and word has been sent her by Secretary Lawrence that all the blossoms she can send to the receiving ship will be a thousand times welcomed.

NAVAL RADIO SCHOOL GETS BASEBALL OUTFIT

George Brown proved a warm weather Santa Claus by dropping into the offices of the Naval Radio School and emptying his pack which contained a dozen league baseballs, a dozen mitts, four finger mitts, a catcher's glove, a first baseman's mitt and a catcher's mask. "Come again," chirped the Radio officers as Brown wended his way back to B. A. A. headquarters.

McNulty, Giacamo Figlioli, Roy L. Hilton of Winchester; Joseph J. Madden, Milton H. Shoenfield, John J. Grady, Alfred M. Bacon, Michael Wall, Lucian H. LaRue of Arlington.

DEDHAM ITALIANS TO HAVE LIBERTY PARADE

A parade and celebration in aid of the Liberty Loan will take place Sunday afternoon, under the auspices of the Italians of Dedham. The State Guards of Dedham and also of the town of Norwood, together with the Boy Scouts, will lead the parade, in which will march about 500 Italians. Following the parade there will be flag raising of the American and Italian flags, with speaking in Memorial Hall.

Stop Corn Pain in Two Minutes By the Clock—Easy and Simple

THE MAGIC TOUCH OF ICE-MINT DOES IT. JUST A TOUCH STOPS THE SORENESS, THEN THE CORN OR CALLOUS SHRIVELS AND LIFTS OFF. TRY IT. YOUR FEET WILL FEEL COOL AND FINE.

Thanks to a new discovery made from a Rocky Mountain product your foot troubles can be quickly ended.

Ice-Mint, as this new preparation is called, is said to shrivel up hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes so that they can be lifted out easily with the fingers.

Rub a little on any tender corn or callous. Instantly the soreness disappears and shortly the corn or callous will loosen so that it can be lifted right out with the fingers—root and all. No foolishness.

Ice-Mint is a clean, creamy, snow-white, non-poisonous substance and does not inflame or even irritate the most tender skin. There is no pain, smarting or even a bit of soreness while applying Ice-Mint or afterwards. It acts so gently, so magically that you will never want to run the risk of blood poison by cutting a corn again.

Ask your druggist for a small jar of Ice-Mint which will cost little yet is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn or callous. You'll like it immensely.—Advertisement.

HOT-WATER BOTTLES NEEDED FOR WOUNDED

Supplies for American and French wounded in France are urgently needed, according to an announcement made today by the New England branch of the American Fund for French Wounded, No. 104 Boylston street. A cablegram from Mrs. Benjamin G. Lathrop, president of the Paris depot, stated that hot-water bottles are especially in demand. The French clubs of Harvard and Radcliffe Colleges will give their Spring play, "The Mystery of the Yellow Room," by Gaston Leroux, for the benefit of the American Fund. It will take place May 4, at 8 p. m., at Agassis House, Cambridge, and on May 8, at 2:15, in the Copley Theatre.

CAMP BASEBALL FUND STILL GROWING

Boston American Pressmen Send Check for $17.25— Benefit at Arena May 11

The Boston AMERICAN Camp Devens Baseball Fund, which will be wound up with a monster benefit at the Arena on the night of May 11, is steadily growing larger.

The sum of $17.25 was contributed by members of the Boston AMERICAN Press Room Chapel. The check was received in a letter from Chairman W. J. Sullivan, and read:

"Please accept our little contribution for the boys at Camp Devens in aid of their baseball fund."

The fund will be increased by a considerable amount through a dance which is to be given tonight under the auspices of the Milford Board of Selectmen.

SOLDIERS TO ATTEND.

Dr. Thomas J. Nugent, chairman of the board, has secured permission through Lieutenant Robert C. Deming official custodian of the fund, for Milford boys now at Camp Devens to attend. About fifty soldiers will be present, and before the dance will give exhibition drills and demonstrate the use of their gas masks. One thousand tickets have been distributed and it is expected that a large number of them will be sold.

Plans are practically completed for the big benefit on the night of May 11, a feature of which will be a pleasing surprise for lovers of dramatic affairs. It is expected that Major-General Harry L. Hodges, commander of the 76th Division, will be present with his staff to add to the interest of the occasion.

DETAILS ON SUNDAY.

It will not be possible to publish the details of the surprise until next Sunday, when the papers of that date will carry a full account. Men, women and children who are interested in theatricals should make sure that they learn about what is going to take place.

There will be other features, also, including a pageant in which Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts will take part, together with Mme. Wilhelmina Wright Calvert, the celebrated soloist.

Lieutenant Deming, who was appointed custodian of the fund by General Hodges, is still receiving individual contributions, and anyone who wishes to help the boys at Devens should send their money or checks to him.

RESENTS SLUR ON MEN OF COLOR IN THE ARMY

A protest against any discrimination against colored men in the service and wearing the uniform of the United States, was voiced today by Norman N. Rayner, president of the Boston branch of the Welfare League, which exists for the care of all men of colored blood and their dependents during the war.

Mr. Rayner's protest in behalf of the league which he represents is the result of an order issued in the 92nd Army Division of advising men not to go to places where they are not desired and which he says is a slur upon the members of the colored race who are fighting for Democracy and Liberty.

GREENWOOD'S PLAN TO SOLVE LOAFER PROBLEM

Representative Fred P. Greenwood of Everett, author of the anti-loafing bill, today asked the AMERICAN to correct the statement attributed to him that every able-bodied man in the State who is not regularly engaged in some useful occupation should be sent to jail for the duration of the war. Mr. Greenwood did not say that the loafers should be sent to jail for the duration of the war. He said they should be confined for limited periods and that this punishment undoubtedly would cause them to seek some useful occupation as soon as they were liberated.

The country then would derive the full benefit of their labor. This is in accord with the policy of the anti-loafing bill adopted in other States.

LOWELL MAN HONORED AT COTTON CONVENTION

New York, May 3.—The necessity of adjusting industry to the strain of war ... was the keynote of speeches ... here today to cotton manufacturers of the North and South when their annual meeting was ... at the Biltmore Hotel.

Charles H. Smith, president of the ... of New York, delivered the principal address.

... Stevens of Lowell, Mass., was presented with a medal for having contributed most to the advancement of the cotton industry during the war.

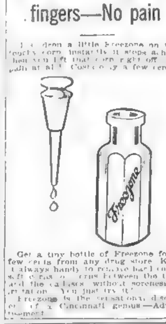
SLIGHT DECREASE IN THE APRIL DEMAND FOR HELP

The demand for help in April was six per cent less than in the same month last year according to a statement issued today by the Boston Public Employment Office, No. 8 Kneeland street. The demand was heavier than ... March, however, and the number of positions filled showed an increase over last year. Skilled workers are still hard to secure, the printing industry is constantly calling for mechanical men, but there is practically no call for building tradesmen. Able-bodied laborers and female help, skilled and unskilled, are also in great demand.

LIFT OUT ANY CORN

No Humbug! A few drops and corn lifts out with fingers—No pain

Just drop a little Freezone on that touchy corn, instantly it stops aching, then you lift that corn right off. No pain at all. Costs only a few cents.



Get a tiny bottle of Freezone for a few cents from any drug store. Keep it always handy to remove hard corns, soft corns, or corns between the toes, and the calluses without soreness or irritation. You just try it!

America Must Play a Man's Part, Declares North Dakota Senator

By International News Service.

Washington, May 3.—Declaring that America has failed to "play a man's part in the war," Senator McCumber of North Dakota, in a speech in the Senate this afternoon, called upon the nation to provide five million fighting men and "to really get into the war."

"Since we entered the war our allies have been fighting our battles," Senator McCumber declared. "We proposed to have in France at the end of the first year of our war not less than 1,000,000 fighting men. The year ended with less than 2[illegible],000. We purposed to have in France before the end of the first year a flying squadron of about 12,000, and at the end of the year we find the aircraft appropriation of $640,000,000 has been worse than squandered.

DELAYED BY EXPERIMENTS.

"The greatest question that confronted us when we entered this war was the question of ship construction. Despite the fine percentage showing the ugly fact still stares us in the face that we have constructed only two ships, when the situation demanded 1,000.

"What have been the causes? Foremost was our unpreparedness. The next important cause for our failure to meet our war expectations has been an almost total lack of foresight [illegible] great fundamental requirements.

"Had we begun ship construction [illegible] after April 6, 1917, we could have had 1,500,000 men in France by the first of January, 1918. Another cause of delay has been the [illegible] of construction while awaiting the results of experiments.

"Still another and most important cause has been the unparalleled extravagance. The spirit of avarice [illegible] of the people as never before.

MUST LEARN ECONOMY.

"Before we get through with this war we shall be compelled to learn the lesson of prudence and economy. We can't win the war without buying Liberty Bonds, but we can't win [illegible] of the money received from Liberty Bonds.

"Another thing that has delayed our war progress [illegible] extent has been the bluster[illegible] and braggadocio of the press.

"Another great [illegible] our progress has been the lack of coordination.

"Another great mistake has been the idea that this war had given us the opportunity to put into active operation theories of the ideal[illegible]. We have made a mistake in taking [illegible] with [illegible] American people.

"Another mistake I believe is the [illegible] relationship between the executive and the legislative branches of the government."

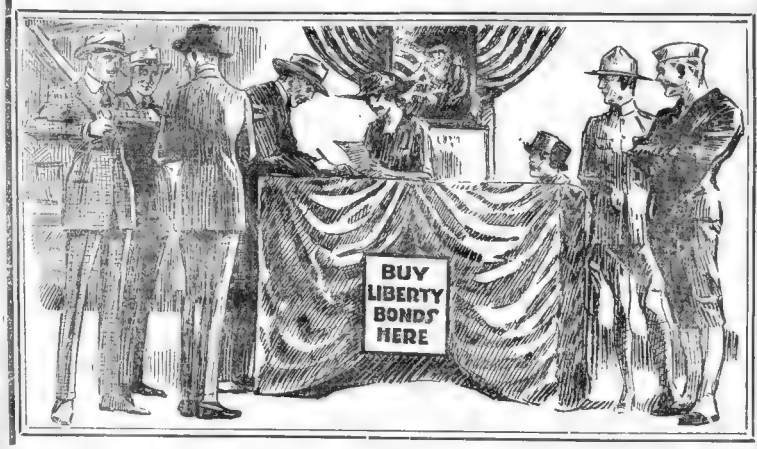
FINAL WEEK of Boston's Greatest Clothing Sale

Save money by selecting from the stock of

Georges

At The CONTINENTAL

Boylston and Washington Sts.



IT is a most unusual event in retail merchandising to sell in a few weeks' time the entire stock of a very large clothing house. Occasionally you hear of a small store retiring from business, but never before in the history of Boston has any concern purchased and placed on sale at greatly reduced prices so large a clothing stock as "Georges." We wanted his building, and to get it immediately we were compelled to buy every garment. The advancing prices of clothing insured the success of the sale, but it will end sooner than we anticipated. We knew that thousands of men would respond, but we did not know that so many would buy two or three suits.

"Plattsburg"

by the House of Kuppenheimer

The masterly mind of Kuppenheimer's chief designer stands sponsor for this most delightful of all the new Summer styles—a young man's suit so original in its conception, so graceful in its symmetry, so irresistible in its appeal, that its phenomenal popularity was assured before it was ever exhibited to an admiring public.

The "Plattsburg" is decidedly military in spirit, as you might guess from the smart pockets shown in the illustration. If this young man could turn around, you would see the same military idea carried out in the snug-fitting back.

Such a style as this demands the utmost skill in tailoring as a prerequisite to success, and it is entirely probable that without the superb Kuppenheimer tailoring, the "Plattsburg" would have been little more than merely ordinary.

When you take a look through our stock you will find that the "Plattsburg" comes in fabrics and patterns that are quite as attractive as the model and as effective as the tailoring. And all priced in the typical Kennedy fashion, too.

IN CORBETT'S CORNER

by James J. Corbett.

The brilliant debut of the 1918 Red Sox is an eloquent tribute to Ed Barrow's genius as a baseball leader.

Of course, the splendid showing made by the Bostonians so far this season has been due in a certain measure to the class which is sprinkled so plentifully through the lineup. But the main reason is none other than Barrow.

[illegible]

A GREAT HUSTLER.

Barrow is an ideal type of an American, cool and calm in moments of greatest crisis. He is filled to the brim with the "never-say-die" spirit and possessed of the knack of imparting it to each and everyone of his subordinates. Resourceful and quick-witted, Barrow inspires confidence among his men and so adds countlessly to their own natural assets.

At the outset of the season some persons were skeptical as to what the rebuilt Red Sox under a new leader could do. But those who know Barrow best are not at all surprised at the showing of the club to date. Barrow was not confronted with the task of building a [illegible] [illegible]

The two Chicago clubs have been a number of disappointments so far. The champion White Sox seem [illegible] the punch [illegible] they [illegible] the Cubs regarded as certain foes of the [illegible] from the outset of the race have been sliding considerably, and so far seem minus the requisites of a pennant-chaser.

The season is still an infant of course, and the Cubs may begin doing things a little later on. But a game won in April and May counts just as much as does a victory in October.

WATCH MATTIE'S REDS.

The Reds have come through nicely and it looks as if they will be there or thereabouts all through the season. The Yankees have demonstrated a fine defence and great batting power, but their pitchers aren't going any too well and until that fault is corrected they cannot expect to climb to very great heights in the Johnson circuit.

The Tigers have shown batting strength [illegible]

JEFF SMITH AND ROBINSON ON AT C. A. C.

Bayonne, N. J., Boxer Out to Get Fresh Start in Biffdom —Gibbs vs. Le Bouef

CARD AT COMMERCIAL A. C.

Main bout: Jeff Smith of Bayonne, N. J., vs. George Robinson of Cambridge, 12 rounds.

Semi-final: Henri Le Bouef of New Bedford vs. Ray Gibbs of Woonsocket, R. I., 10 rounds.

Second preliminary: Young Kloss of Commonwealth Pier vs. Young Alger, six rounds.

Curtain-raiser: Mike Caste of Lawrence vs. Charlie Mitchell of Weymouth, six rounds.

Referee: Larry Conley.

Starting time: 8 p. m.

By J. P. MURPHY.

Lieutenant Jeff Smith of Bayonne, N. J., makes his debut at the Commercial A. C. tonight, when he collides with George Robinson, the Cambridge Negro, in the feature set to of twelve rounds.

Smith is determined to convince the fistic world that he is the rightful owner of the middleweight title, and with this end in view, plans an intensive campaign which he confidently expects will eventually land him on top of the 158-pound heap.

[illegible]

The chief trouble with Robinson is that he generally goes out of his class and is made to look like a novice. This time, however, he will be tackling a man of practically his own poundage, and it remains to be seen what he really can do.

Mamaux Jumps the Dodgers; Accused of Slackerism

By THOMAS S. RICE.

Brooklyn, May 3.—No sufficient excuse has been offered by Al Mamaux, Brooklyn pitcher, formerly of the Pittsburgh Pirates, for having the team Wednesday night to enter a munitions factory with the hope of escaping the call to the National Army.

Mamaux made no bones about telling President Ebbets of the Brooklyns what he expected to do [illegible] but did not say when he was going, nor did he say good-bye to a soul around the ball park.

His allegation that his mother and a younger brother are dependent upon him is not taken seriously, as his draft board in Pittsburgh had investigated his case and put him in Class 1, A, without hesitation.

The baseball set of Greater New York is furious at Mamaux. It considers he has cast reflection upon the whole profession and he is being unmercifully panned. It is impossible to see how he could ever face an American crowd again any more than [illegible] Fred Toney of the Cincinnati Reds.

If Mamaux thinks he will be free from the draft by taking service in a munitions factory or a shipyard he is making the biggest mistake of his life.

JESS BREAKS TRAINING; AWAITS MILLER'S WORD

Chicago, May 3.—Jess Willard broke training today for that tomorrow championship match with Fred Fulton. He busily packed his household goods for removal to his farm in Kansas. "I think there will be a fight," he said. "It won't be at St. Paul, they say, but Miller knows other places. I'm going to stay on my farm until I hear what is coming."

JACK DEMPSEY MEETS MISKE IN ST. PAUL

Salt Lake Fistic Sensation Battles Light-Heavyweight, Who Drew With Fulton

St. Paul, Minn., May 3.—Jack Dempsey, Salt Lake City boy who recently flashed across the horizon of the pugilistic world, will be put to the acid test here tonight.

He will exchange punches with Billy Miske, in a "grudge" battle to decide supremacy.

Although Miske is classed as a light heavyweight, he has a record which commands attention and speaks for his gameness.

His recent meeting with Fred Fulton here, proved that he was capable of taking care of himself when matched against men who weigh in much heavier.

He secured an even break with Fulton. In fact, local fans think he shaded the big plasterer.

Dempsey has a long line of one-round knockouts behind him, totaling almost a dozen quickly ended affairs, but most of these men were second-graders.

His most notable accomplishments were his two bouts with Carl Morris, out of both of which he emerged bearing the colors of victory, and his quick kayo of Bill Brennan.

McGRAW IN HUB WITH GIANTS

New York Troupe Honk-Honking Along in First Place—Scrappy Series in Offing

By NICK FLATLEY.

Like wounded birds, the more or less defeat-riddled Braves fluttered home today to try to get things coming better in the precarious security of their own nest. So far as the game in prospect went there was not much security in view. The Giants were here, too.

The Giants are farther away from the rest of the teams in their league than the Germans are from the Channel ports, and beating them seems to be among the impossibles. For baseball [illegible] of it was nothing to arouse the baseball enthusiasm that hasn't been in evidence at all this year.

But there were other things that made Braves Field a point of much interest this afternoon.

There was the first chance hereabouts to see the great Heinie Zim as he appears now that his name is linked in history with that famous dash after Edward Collins of Chicago.

There was the first chance to view and to hear Charles Lincoln Herzog and Iron Jaw Muggsy McGraw as out and out and [illegible]. Their animosity last year was carefully camouflaged.

There was the usual opportunity to look over the outfit that bids fair to have the National League wrecked by [illegible]. The New Yorkers are hitting away, and if they keep on doing so, as they probably will, the other teams will have about as many friends in a month as a convicted spy has.

We have stated many a time heretofore that the Braves had possibilities and we still state the same, but beating the Giants doesn't even seem possible these days. However, strange things happen in baseball [illegible] and it may be that some other flock of athletes than the Johns will spend, or put in the bank, the next bunch of series money.

Since leaving home the Braves did manage to win one game from Brooklyn but they lost a pair and so returned in a tie with the Dodgers for last place. Who can tell but the horror of that thought will be the thing that will get the outfit started toward more pleasant and popular heights?

The hint of real hitting power is still in evidence in the box scores of defeat, and the vets who were slow to start have just about found their bearings now. The team's pitchers haven't returned with any laurel wreaths on their clammy brows, but then the weather hasn't been very warm.

This present series is going to offer some of the Stallings rookies an opportunity for fame—also a chance of violent bombardment, but of course that should never be considered.

JOE BUSH FACES YANKS IN 1ST OF SERIES

Former Mack Flinger May Draw Thormahlen as Foe—Whiteman Left Behind

New York, May 3.—Safely ensconced in first place for the present at least and just now bowling along at a rapid fire gait, Ed Barrow's [illegible] model Red Sox today began a [illegible] swing around part of the Eastern circuit, opening with a four game series against the Yankees at the Polo Grounds.

This afternoon's battle marked the first big appearance of the latter [illegible].

Everybody made the trip over from the Hub with the exception of [illegible] Whiteman, the outfielder, who is [illegible] going none too well and who has been left ten[illegible]orarily anyway.

Joe Bush, former Athletic flinger, was scheduled to open hostilities with the Huggins crew, and it would not be at all surprising if he drew for an opponent Herbert Thormahlen, who gave the ex-Mackman a spirited duel in Boston not so long ago.

It will be recalled that on that occasion Thormahlen held the Red Sox hitless for eight innings, only to lose out 1 to 0 in the ninth, when Strunk [illegible] Ruth hit safely and Bodie made a famous muff.

After they finish up here the Sox will jump to Washington for three games, returning home May 13 to await the invasion of the western teams.

TEN EYCK STYLE OF STROKING FOR ORANGE

New York, May 3.—The Columbia crew will again revive the now famous Ten Eyck style of stroking when the oarsmen meet crews of the other Eastern colleges in the Childs' Cup race, at Princeton.

Coach Jim Rice has been instructing his stroke, Slick Brown, a Sophomore, in a style very similar to that used by young Jim Ten Eyck, when he stroked the Orange to victory a few years ago.

The Four of Hearts

A SERIAL OF YOUTH AND LOVE

Milton Insists on Speaking Privately to Dora, and Cynthia Aids and Abets Him

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER L.

Copyright, 1918, by [illegible] Company.

WHATEVER was on [illegible] mind, [illegible] matter. [illegible] a great deal, and [illegible] so many [illegible] that Mrs. Livingstone decided she had never seen him more entertaining than he was that evening

But she noticed that Gerald was not [illegible] able His hostess watched him with some apprehension. He had been rather [illegible] he had come in from the dining room She wondered just what the men had been talking about in there. Curiosity was one of her strongest characteristics, and she determined to ascertain what had depressed Stewart.

"We, [illegible]," "you gentlemen did not linger long over your cigars tonight, did you? What was the matter? Were there no interesting stories to tell?"

Neither of the men responded, and Mr. Livingstone felt it incumbent upon him to reply in the same jocose tone in which his wife had spoken

"I told them one amusing occurrence in which the joke was on you, my dear," he remarked. "However, we will not repeat that little tale now."

Mrs. Livingstone, was mystified "The joke was on me?" she questioned. "I have not the most remote idea what you refer to, Stephen."

Her husband moved uncomfortably. "Oh, never mind, my dear," he evaded. "It's not such a funny joke, after all."

"But I insist upon knowing what it was," Mrs. Livingstone persisted. "If you won't tell me one of of these young men must."

She glanced [illegible] to Milton. Like other inquisitive persons, she hid her insatiate curiosity behind a laughing demeanor.

Gerald turned to Cynthia and began to talk to her in a low voice. Milton, happening to be standing near the library table, was left to his future mother-in-law's mercy.

"What story did my husband tell you, Milton?" she inquired coaxingly. "Was it a joke on me, as he says?"

Milton spoke impetuously. "I do not think it was a joke on you at all. If there was any joke it was rather on some of the rest of us."

An Anxious Moment

Then he subsided into silence, and, in spite of his inquisitor's urging, he refused to add more to his brief statement. Mrs. Livingstone therefore trained her guns again upon her husband.

"Stephen," shaking her finger at him, "tell me at once what you have been saying to these boys about me."

"Nothing especial," Stephen Livingstone declared. Then seeing in his wife's eyes a look he knew only too well, he strove to gratify her inquisitive mood. "I only told them," he admitted, "of the amusing mistake you made about a certain scene you witnessed here in the [illegible] several weeks ago."

"Oh!"

Mrs. Livingstone's ejaculation was abrupt. One might have wondered whether it was caused by what her husband said or by the effect of his speech on the quartet of young people.

Gerald Stewart sat as if turned to stone, his eyes fixed on the floor. Milton uttered a smothered exclamation and threw his cigar end into the fire, then, stooping over the flame, pretended to be interested in watching it burn. Cynthia flushed, and Dora shot a startled look in her direction.

Yet nobody asked for further explanation. Someone must say something, and Mrs. Livingstone came to the rescue. She saw that she had been guilty of a mistake in insisting on this revelation, and she hastened to repair her error.

[illegible] with a light laugh, "that was only a trifling matter—an optical illusion, you might call it. I don't see why you ever bothered to tell anyone about it, Stephen. And now, my dear, suppose that you and I go upstairs and let these children have a little while together without our chaperonage.

Do not hurry, mother," Dora demurred. "We 'children,' as you call us have nothing especial to say to one another. You may as well stay here with us."

Milton Is in Earnest

But to the astonishment of all hearers Milton spoke out suddenly.

"I beg your pardon, Dora, but there is something I want to talk to you about—if you are not too tired to give me a few minutes."

Cynthia stood up. "Gerald and I will go over into the drawing-room for a while," she said.

"You will not!" Dora contradicted. "Milton can talk to me at some other time. I am tired and want to go to bed early."

"Dora!" the mother's ejaculation was fraught with displeasure. "I am surprised at you!"

"Because I told the absolute truth?" the girl laughed "Well, Milton is accustomed to my engaging little ways. If he isn't, he may as well get accustomed to [illegible] now."

But when Mr and Mrs. Livingstone had said good-night and gone upstairs, Cynthia spoke to Gerald with an authoritative tone quite unusual in her.

"Gerald—come over into the drawing-room with me, please," she said

And, without waiting for his reply, or to listen to any protest from her cousin she left the room abruptly, accompanied by her betrothed.

In the drawing-room she turned to him, her manner softened

"Thank you, Gerald," she said, "for following my lead. I really have nothing especial to say to you. I only wanted to give Milton a chance to speak alone with Dora. I can see that he has something which he feels must be said. That is the reason I got out of the way

They're Training to Help Uncle Sam Win the War

These College and High School Girls Will Work in the Fields of the Empire State as Full-Fledged Farmers

PUTTING LIFE INTO BOYS

Army Training Greatest Help to Health They Have Known

By William A. McKeever,

(One of the nation's foremost authorities on sociological subjects.)

AN army physician was explaining enthusiastically the fact that the new discipline and training now required of the American soldier improves the average enlisted man's physical condition not less than 300 per cent.

"And you would not think it so," he declared, "but the basis of all this improvement is a greatly increased supply of oxygen—more oxygen, to enrich the blood, to digest the food, to give the circulatory system increased carrying power both for rebuilding the body and for drawing off the waste matter."

It has been found that less than ten per cent. of the new army enlistments are men who are using their full lung capacity. The large majority are more or less hollow chested. Anemia, deficiency in the red blood corpuscles, or oxygen starvation—that is the trouble. As further outward indications of this weakened physique we may often observe spinal curvature, drooping shoulders, a dropping of the head and a shambling gait when walking

Greatest Institution

So the American army is the greatest institution this country has ever known for developing young men physically, for putting oxygen into the blood and manly vigor into the entire being. But at the time the young soldier enters the army he has already passed the best age for physical training

Now, the question arises, while we are waiting for government control to act and prescribe universal physical training for the pupils of all public school grades, how can we as individual parents meet the serious situation and build up our own children? How can we increase the consumption of oxygen for each child and thus build up resistance to fatigue and disease, thus adding to the child's power of physical, mental and moral achievement? I suggest the following simple measures for both boys and girls

Teach your child to sit, stand and walk in an erect posture. Set a good example of this by your own conduct. Here suggestion thus has a powerful influence.

Spend three minutes per day with the children in taking vigorous breathing exercise — lifting the chest, expanding the lungs to their greatest capacity, holding the breath, exhaling to the limit and the like, all together. All will soon become fond of this little drill, as they almost feel the increase in the glow of good health

Brief running exercises are a [illegible] means for expanding the lungs and increasing the oxygen consumption on the part of children. Thus the runner is forced to breathe and is certain to get the result, which is not always possible from the standing exercises. A distance of 500 feet, and without strained effort, is far enough for the six-year-old child to run at first. To increase the amount might bring on fatigue and dislike for the exercise as well as lowered vitality. A ten-year-old boy may be able to run a mile with the best of results, but only after he has been slowly brought up to this limit by gradual practice.

Reward Certain

The reward of all this exercise is most certain. The pre-adolescent child with a habitual erect posture, a large chest expansion or with the acquired ability to run a half-mile without fatigue—such a boy or girl will most probably appear to be in the pink of good health and will come through the ordinary children's diseases with reserve power left over. Such a boy or girl will also have a far better chance of standing in the front rank of his class in school

Buckles for Stylish Hats

By Rita Stuyvesant.

HAVE you ever thought of using a buckle to trim your old panama or sport hat? This season, when every one is economizing so strictly, many novel ideas have been shown in millinery and especially in "made-over" hats. Perhaps you are tired of flowers, fancies or bows on your hats and are looking for something unusual that will still be within the limits of your wartime pocketbook. Conservation buckles that you can make at home for a very small sum are exceedingly smart and will give your old hat just the desired touch of newness

A clever college girl recently showed me her "trimmed-over sport hat" with a lovely buckle of purple and yellow raffia. Raffia is a kind of straw that comes in a variety of pretty colors and may be purchased at any art needlework store

The buckle itself was cut from papier mache and was wound with purple raffia. The shape was an odd one with a bar through the centre. Yellow raffia was used to [illegible]

"[illegible] outline stitch," the college girl confided to me, "you hold one strand of raffia in place and with another strand in your needle work as follows: Run the needle under the raffia, covering one side of the buckle, then bring the needle up over the strand you are holding and down on the other side In this way you can catch the outline strand in as many places as you choose

It is really surprising how lovely these buckles are and yet so simple to make. The purple and yellow buckle was used on a panama hat and was run through with a broad silk scarf of purple drawn about the crown. Many original color schemes can be worked out to suit individual tastes, and shapes and sizes come in great variety. Before cutting into your papier mache experiment on plain paper until you can get a suitable buckle. Often an old metal buckle can be used as a pattern. When the raffia is wound on the buckle be sure that it is close and firm, with no spaces showing

Circular buckles are pretty for small hats. An unusual buckle could be made of rose colored raffia outlined in black, and would be smart with a tan scarf.

For a tailored hat a large oval buckle is appropriate. A taupe grey "sailor" would be completely dressed up by the addition of a bright red raffia buckle placed directly in front and run through with grey grosgrain ribbon.

If you are wondering what to do with last season's sport hat and you do not want to spend much money, you will do well to make one of these attractive raffia buckles.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

The "Lonely" Girl

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I've never had a man's friendship. I realize there must be something wrong with me or this would not have happened. I am self-supporting, sew and cook well. Study of one sort or another and reading have been my chief pleasures in life, and I never expected to be discontented. I've had good times with girl friends, but my mother is my real pal. I seldom go anywhere except shopping or to theatre with her. I have not the "come hither" look in my eyes, but I have been called stunning looking. I long for a man's friendship. A. J. K.

HOW can people like you if they never meet you? I don't believe there's a single thing in the world the matter with you! You seem a sane, well-balanced young woman with a pleasant gift of expression; your writing indicates a fairly strong, well-balanced, generous character. Have you interested yourself in any organization where you will be thrown with people? Nothing is more beautiful than a fine friendship between a girl and her mother. But the world leans forward toward the younger generation, not backward toward the older. You need to go about, meet people, gain ease and charm through social intercourse. Friendship and love will come naturally to a girl like you unless she makes too much of a recluse of herself.

Puss in Boots Jr.

By David Cory

WELL, let me see. We left Puss Junior with his two small comrades, the little black cricket and the pretty yellow bird, in the castle of the Giant Merry-laugh. And, don't you remember, the giant had just sat down to the piano and played a song?

Well, after that was finished the little yellow bird flew out of the window and the little black cricket crept into a crack in the floor, so Puss said good-by and started off once more by himself. And after he had gone for many a mile he came to a great long-legged crane, who was standing knee deep in a lake. And every time a little fish swam too near the crane snapped him up in his bill

"I'll snap off your ears, little cat," he said, and then he snapped his beak together, one, two, three, bang! But that didn't frighten Puss, Oh, dear no. He just laughed and snapped his fingers—I mean his claws, and said

"Don't bother me, you great big crane,
I'm not afraid of you.
You'd better pull your trousers up
Or they'll be soaked with dew."

And the reason Puss said this was because all of a sudden Mr. Crane's trousers fell down below his knees, for he hadn't rolled them up very well.

"Well, I must admit, you're quite a poet," said the long-legged crane, and he stopped scowling and began to smile. And when a crane smiles with his great long beak he looks almost all smile, let me tell you.

"Oh, I've travelled so much in Mother Goose Land, where everybody talks in rhyme, that it comes very easy to me," replied little Puss Junior

TELLS EFFECT OF STONE BRUISES ON TIRES

Speed of Car Determines Extent of Damage When Shoe Hits Obstruction in Road

By C. F. DONNOCKER.

The motorist is often puzzled by damage done to tires even when no puncture or blowout occurs. Some of these damaged spots are called "stone bruises" and necessitate quite an extensive repair if the shoe is to be saved.

It may have occurred on what appeared to be a perfectly smooth road, yet you were thrown off your seat by the force of the impact and at the time you may have wondered if any damage had been done. The average motorist takes a good deal for granted, however, and does not stop to question cause and effect.

An expert of the Fisk Rubber Company tells what occurs when the tire suffers a stone bruise. He says:

"One rarely stops to consider the force of such a stroke when delivered to the tire upon meeting such an obstruction or road irregularity.

"Back to school days for a moment, if you will, and recall that old law of physics 'The energy of a moving body varies as the square of its velocity.' Apply this to your car and you will note that by doubling the speed the energy is increased four times. Triple your speed and the violence of the road shocks deliver a blow to your tires, the force of which is increased nine times.

"While an increase of speed greatly multiplies the force of the road shocks, the direction of the blow is also changed. In driving slowly over a slight depression the force of the blow is downward, due to the dead weight of the car, and the shock is received in a vertical direction, which is easily absorbed by the cushion of air and the springs on the car, without injury to either. By speeding up the car the force of the blow has changed its direction to a horizontal force, and the weight of the car not only has a downward thrust on the obstacle, but a forward one as well.

"The cushioning effect of springs is not used, hence they do not absorb this horizontal blow, which is aimed directly at the axle; therefore it is a bad blow on the tire, which overtaxes its cushioning effect and stretches its inner carcass construction to such a degree inward that the inner ply of cords or fabrics is strained or broken and later develops into a blowout. The length of time for a blowout to develop depends on the force of the blow, which in turn is governed by the speed of the car when the blow was first received. Thus you will note that the colliding force of an automobile is governed absolutely by the speed."

RHODE ISLAND JUDGES TO NAME JURY COMMISSIONER

Providence, May 3.—Politicians are awaiting with feverish interest the outcome of the meeting of the seven Superior Court judges Saturday, when it is scheduled that a jury commissioner will be appointed in accordance with a recent law passed by the General Assembly. State House politicians say that Representative Jacob A. Eaton of this city is assured of the appointment, which carries with it a salary of $3,500. Clerk of Court Robert Root is credited with drawing the act, assisted by a member of the State law department. At the outset it was believed that Root would have the inside track for the position. Eaton, however, is a factor at the State House, and his declaration that he wanted the job is said to have upset the ambitions of the court clerk.

"OVER THE TOP" SHOWS EMPEY IN ACTION

Realistic Film Made at Camp Wheeler Will Be Shown at the Globe

American soldiers training for service in France received vivid and valuable instruction in trench warfare when Sergeant Arthur Guy Empey, author of "Over the Top" and war lecturer, went to Camp Wheeler, at Macon, Ga., to make trench scenes for the motion picture production of "Over the Top," which will begin an engagement at the Globe Theatre Monday.

Empey, who served eighteen months in France as a member of the Royal London Fusiliers, suffered seven wounds during three engagements, and was actively engaged in battle with rifle, bayonet, bomb and machine gun.

His experience was more diversified than that of the average soldier, and for this reason he was able to show our troopers the different angles of trench fighting in more convincing manner than many of the official instructors could.

During the weeks that Empey and the producers were at work at Camp Wheeler, the little sergeant carried the troops over the top a score of times, and it is declared that this practical demonstration by a man who had done it may times in actual battle was of great value to the troops in training.

Government permission for the producers to use an army camp for motion picture purposes was due, in large measure, to the fact that "Over the Top" is expected to have a helpful effect in the government's war work.

The seory of the play is based on Empey's famous book, which has been read by more than 2,500,000 persons, and it is said to present in vivid relief many stirring incidents which will inspire Americans everywhere to determined efforts to wipe out German barbarity.

Another factor which entered into the matter was Empey's personal patriotic work. Since his return to the United States he has been the most conspicuous individual war worker in the country.

Important That 50-Hour Bill Should Pass Senate

Let Everyone Write to His Senator Today to Counteract the Pressure of the Corporation Lobby

Is the Massachusetts Senate about to supply one more unanswerable argument in favor of the Initiative and Referendum, and incidentally to give a strong boost also to the growing popular conviction that democracy will never be safe in Massachusetts till the corporation-ruled Senate is abolished?

That is what some friends of the fifty-hour bill are predicting, in spite of the overwhelming endorsement of the bill on Wednesday by the House. We hope they are mistaken, for much as the AMERICAN desires the ratification of the Initiative and Referendum amendment by the voters next November, and heartily as we approve of the abolition of the Senate also, the arguments for both reforms are numerous enough and convincing enough already without adding to them the defeat by the Senate of a social welfare measure so important, and so overwhelmingly in line with the wishes of the great mass of the voters of Massachusetts, as this so-called fifty-hour bill.

The passage of the bill through the House has been stormy, and the corporation lobby, employed by the Arkwright Club and the "Associated Industries," has in vain resorted to all the usual parliamentary tricks, as well as to a few novel ones which the AMERICAN has already noted in its news columns, to defeat it. As originally petitioned for by the American Federation of Labor, the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs, the Women's Trade Union League, and other organizations interested in the welfare of women in industry, the bill provided a forty-eight-hour week for women and girls in textile, mercantile and industrial establishments—eight hours a day instead of the nine permitted by the present law. The proofs presented to the committee and to the House that this shortening of working hours, beneficial as it would unquestionably be to the women themselves and to their children yet unborn, would not lessen, but rather increase, the output of Massachusetts industries, were overwhelming. Henry B. Endicott, whose shoe factory, one of the largest in the world, has voluntarily established the eight-hour day, testified that his employes are producing more under the eight-hour plan than before with nine-hour days. The report of the English commission which found that since the adoption of the eight-hour day in the munition factories the women were turning out as much as under the old system which called for ten, and in some cases even eleven hours of daily labor, set at rest the fears of some honest opponents that even the reduction of two hours a week called for in the fifty-hour compromise measure would curtail the output of war materials.

The time-worn bogy of "driving industries out of Massachusetts," which has been trotted out by the corporation lobby every time social welfare legislation has been pending in the Legislature in the last forty years, was effectively laid by a showing of the enormous dividends which the textile mills have been earning for the last ten years. So one-sided was the debate that the opponents of the bill could muster only forty-nine votes in favor of an amendment postponing the operation of the bill to the end of the war, and did not venture to ask a roll-call on its final passage.

Unfortunately, the fate of the bill in the Senate does not altogether depend upon the excellence of the arguments in its favor. How far the reactionary members of the Senate are prepared to go in defiance of the known wishes of their constituents is a decisive factor also. Write to your senator today and let him know where you stand. Be sure that the corporation lobbyists will not forget to bring every possible pressure to bear upon him.

Remember that the call of our young men to arms and the urgent demands upon our factories for munitions and supplies are pressing more women and girls into our industries than ever before. A very large percentage of the next generation of Massachusetts citizens will be the children of wage-earning mothers. Do your bit to insure them a sound and healthy parentage.

Would Government Permit Murder of 1200 Policemen?

No? Then, Mr. Government, Please Read Extracts from Thomas Bodine's MERCURY.

Copyright, 1918, by the Star Company

In his newspaper, the Mercury, of Paris, Mo., Thomas Bodine publishes an editorial as important to other Americans as to the editors of the country's smaller newspapers. Read extracts from it:

Twelve hundred weekly papers in the United States have suspended publication during the year and hundreds of others are on the verge of suspension. In the cities consolidations continue, and many papers operated by independent capital have passed out of existence. No other line of business has been so adversely affected by war conditions.

With no hope of recouping increased cost of operation with an advance either in subscription or advertising rates, even those papers fairly secure are facing a situation far from encouraging, to say the least of it. As costs mount, being denied protection from the paper trust by the United States Senate, publishers of small weeklies and dailies are wondering if the struggle is worth while.

They alone have not profited by reason of the war or can hope to. Yet they are not only expected to bear the onerous burden of government publicity, without pay—the Mercury has given $800 in space to this cause since the war began—but to give money as well.

But there is another angle from which to view the matter, and in this view the public is vitally interested. With the metropolitan press being taken over by big business, and the country weeklies, the backbone of popular government, suspending by hundreds, where are we to go for a liberal press? Through what medium will democracy express itself?

These questions are addressed not alone to advertisers, but to those worthies at Washington who, refusing protection to country papers in their fight against extortion, will yet call loudest for their help in the years to come. They are big questions, not affecting individual publishers here and there alone, but to be considered as vital to the nation.

It is an editorial important to every member of Congress, and to one hundred millions of American citizens, who, whether they know it or not, would soon see their country go rapidly to the devil if there were no small country newspapers to watch the local rascals in and out of corporations and keep track of their doings.

The country newspapers, and more especially the smaller dailies, and thousands of weeklies, are national policemen, watching and protecting the public welfare.

If it were published in all the newspapers that twelve hundred policemen had been silently and quietly put to death by one commercial organization, somebody would show signs of interest.

With All Our Might

GARRETT P. SERVISS' ARTICLE

It Certainly Seems as if the Reaction of the War on the Human Senses Is Going to Develop Some Astounding Facts Regarding Senses of Sight, Smell and Hearing.

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE stories told by soldiers of the detective feats performed by dogs, pigs, cats, geese, birds and even insects along the west battle front are doubtless substantially true. It is averred that these animals often give warning of the approach of aeroplanes and of trench raiders before the slightest indication of what is coming reaches the senses of the human watchers.

Eliminating the element of conscious service which the soldiers naturally ascribe to their pets, there is, in all this, nothing incredible, improbable or contrary to what we know about the acuteness of animal senses. Even the assertion that some of these instinctive sentinels possess the power of "sensing" the secret gathering of the enemy forces long before an attack is launched is quite within the limits of belief.

Hundreds of Times

It is in accord with what has been observed hundreds of times of the revelatory conduct of both wild and domestic animals on the eve of earthquakes, calamitous tempests and other destructive outbreaks of nature's forces. It has generally been assumed that some subtle form of vibration acting upon nerves specially keyed to respond to it is at the bottom of such phenomena. There are two evident ways in which these results may be brought about.

First, there may be supersensitiveness of the regular organs of sight, hearing and touch; second, there may be special sense organs not possessed by human beings. It is probable that both of these conditions are, in fact, fulfilled. It is even possible that man once had senses, or "branches" of senses which he no longer enjoys, but which, nevertheless, would serve him well in some of the new emergencies that his conquest of formerly unattainable forces has brought him face to face with.

If the conditions imposed by this war could be indefinitely continued it is conceivable that the human nervous mechanism would be readjusted backward, so to speak, through the reawakening of old sense responses that were in full activity in the days when man lived in a world given over to the reign of force, brute selfishness, low cunning and terror.

There are in our bodies and brains "vestigal" structures and organs which seem once to have been in a state of full development, with complete connections assuring their utility, but which have become atrophied for lack of employment. Some of these seem to have had no other use than to afford protection against surprise.

Consider, for instance, what is known as "Jacobson's organ," of which the only remnant in man is an abandoned tube between the nose and the palate, which may be plainly seen in the three months' embryo, but which often entirely disappears in the adult and is never open, or in any manner used, in the human mechanism, although certain lower reptiles and mammals, whose lives are passed in a berserker environment, possess the organ of full activity. It appears to have originated among amphibians, and as far as can be guessed its functions combine, in some way, the sense of smell with that of taste.

At any rate it belongs to the class of organs called "distance receptors," whose business is to give warning of outside conditions and perils. Its elimination from the human make-up indicates that as man advanced he had less need of especial warning apparatus additional to what he now possesses.

Then there is that mysterious reddish cone in the interior of the brain, behind the third ventricle, filled with gritty particles called "brain sand," and named the "pineal body," which Descartes, in accord with the opinions of the ancients, declared was the "citadel of the soul," but concerning which modern science has only been able to form conjectures, such as that it may have once been an organ for the appreciation of temperature, although the more general opinion is that in earlier stages of animal development it was a subsidiary eye, a kind of backdoor peephole, or lookout, for sneaking enemies. In some serpents the vestiges of such a hindeye are particularly plain.

Growing Dim

One of the senses that has been long growing dim in man is that of smell, which seems to have been among the very first developed in lower organisms. The earlier cerebral stimuli, it is believed, were chemical, and such would be supplied through the olfactory sense. It is well known that the lower animals depend to an extraordinary degree upon the sense of smell, although it would apparently be wise to extend the definition of olfaction to cover forms of chemical stimulation that no longer affect us, although they may once have done so in an earlier stage of human development.

This is indicated by the fact that the foetal brain possesses relatively larger olfactory bulbs than the adult. The dog, whose sense of smell seems almost miraculous to us, has five or six mitral cell connections for the olfactory bulb, while in man there is but one. But once our forebears may have been led by their noses as swiftly and surely as is a dog.

DIG!

(For the Third Liberty Loan)

By PAUL HARRIS DRAKE

HARK, the message of the Springtime,
Borne to us on every breeze:
"Now's the time to get acquainted
With the birds and grass and trees;
Now's the time to start a garden—
Get outdoors and dance a jig;
Now's the time to plant potatoes;
Springtime says, "GET OUT AND DIG!"

Yet another voice is calling—
More insistent, grander, loud:
'Tis the voice of Human Freedom;
How it echoes through the crowd!
Every ear must hear its prompting
Clear, it sounds a truth that's big:
"Now's the time to prove your mettle—
Duty says, "GET OUT AND DIG!"

Just because you dig a garden
In the flush of impulse deep,
Think not all your duty's ended;
RIGHT must still its vigil keep!
While your digging helps the nation
By the added food you raise
Don't forget that still another
Kind of digging calls for praise!

Open up that woolen stocking
Hid behind the chimney brick;
Rip that mattress where in hiding
Idle dollars swell the tick!
Dig in chest, and till and coffer;
Strive your hardest; do not nig—
TRUTH AND JUSTICE, RIGHT AND FREEDOM
Call us all to "DIG, DIG, DIG!"

WORLDLING, ARE YOU REALLY HAPPY?

By Winifred Black

SHE is a woman of the world, she says, and by that she means that she has a rich husband, a lady's maid, a chauffeur, a butler, a string of pearls, a house in town, a country place, a box at the opera, a social secretary and a real visiting list.

She's handsome, or anyway she makes you think she's handsome, which amounts to the same thing, doesn't it? There is never a hair out of place in her wonderful coiffure, and a baby two years old could see that she never missed her facial treatment for anything in the world—not even for fire, flood or famine.

Her hats are made in Paris, her coats are made in London, her opera wraps made in Vienna or Budapest, and her complexion is made in America.

She plays a good game of bridge, smokes a bit after dinner, studies French now and again—she doesn't call it studying, she speaks of it as "brushing up." She diets to keep down her figure, swims to keep her muscles active, rides because "they ride in London" in the smart set, and she pays her secretary to read all the smart books and tell her what they're about so that her own set will think she is literary.

She has two children, of whom she is very fond; she doesn't seem to care much for her husband, and with her mother she is hopelessly at outs, for mother never could see the sense of being a woman of the world.

Mother Is Different

Mother lives in a little village up State, where she has lived since she was born. She occupies the big front bedroom upstairs where she was born and where her mother lived as a bride.

She has a fairly good cook and a chore boy. The chore boy is sixty years old, but he is a good furnace tender, and what if he does leave a few rough edges in the lawn once in a while? He turns the ice cream on Sundays, and freezes it for dinner, and if there is an errand to the village he goes and does it.

He isn't at all smart looking. Sometimes he hardly looks even respectable, for there's a cap he will persist in wearing, though it's faded till you couldn't tell the original color of it to save your life, and it's all twisted out of shape. He says the children keep it looking that way. For the children always fall in love with him when they come there to visit and follow him around the garden and beg him for stories. And he has the queerest old songs he sings of "Ri Tum, Tibbi, and Hay, Tum Tu." Oh, he's hopelessly far from being the correct thing!

Mother has a carriage and a pair of horses. She hates automobiles and she has an awkward, good-natured young chap for a driver. She says she knew his mother once years ago, and she was a good, faithful soul, and she isn't going to let Mary Ann's boy go wandering off, goodness knows where!

What Mother Says

Whenever any one is ill in the village mother is sent for and she goes just as quickly as she can get on her hat and coat, and she stays just as long as she can be of the least service. She reads stories to feverish children, and makes tea for delicate mothers, and sits down by the bedside of the tired-out high school girl and talks about the sororities and the high school dances and has a lovely time, and finds out all that is in the girl's heart—especially if her mother is dead, or doesn't understand her.

Every wild boy who ever got into trouble in the little town has found mother waiting on the doorstep for him when he went home with his heart bursting with anxiety and humiliation, and no girl ever crept away from the little town up State in disgrace and misery alone—not if mother heard about it in time to put her arms around her and help her face the world honestly again.

Mother doesn't go down to the city to visit daughter very often. She says she finds daughter's life very narrow and artificial and somehow terribly provincial.

GOODBYE, MY OWN SWEET DARLING GIRL!

By Elizabeth Jordan

"IT was awfully good of you to see me tonight. I'm afraid you gave up some other engagement."

"I did have a dinner on. But it wasn't a formal one. And when you telephoned and said this was to be your only evening in New York, I telephoned to my hostess and asked her to let me off. She was very nice about it."

"I ought to have let you know sooner. But of course I couldn't, for I didn't know myself. Besides I—well, I wasn't sure you would have any time for me."

A Compliment

"I wouldn't be much of a friend if I couldn't find time to see a brave soldier the night before he sailed for France. I'm—I'm very proud to have your last evening here. You paid me a compliment in asking for it."

"It's like you to say that. But I mustn't take it under false pretences. Of course, we're not certain that we're sailing in the morning. We may not go for several days. But we were given an unofficial tip that tonight's shore leave was all we could count on."

"Have you seen your family?"

"Yes, I stopped over with them for a night on my way to New York."

"You're the only son, aren't you?"

"Yes."

"How—oh, dreadfully hard it must have been for your mother to say good-by!"

"I'm afraid it was. But she didn't let me see it. She was pure grit up to the finish. The last glimpse I had, as the train pulled out early in the morning, was of mother on the station platform, with her head high, waving her handkerchief to me and smiling."

"She has a wonderful smile—your mother. I only met her once, that time you brought her here to tea last year, and there were forty or fifty people around us. But I remember her beautiful smile."

"Yes. I've always gone to her with all my troubles. When I was a kid, and she smiled over them, I knew that everything was all right. She took a great fancy to you, you know."

"Did she? I'm glad. I admired her so much. You—you look wonderfully well. Are you really as well as you seem?"

"I guess so. I never think anything about it. You see, I've never been sick a day in my life."

"I suppose your football playing and all your athletics account for that. They must have made your camp training seem very easy."

Of Course He Does

"Yes. They helped in another way, too. I got a lot of my men interested in games. They like the fun and it keeps them fit."

"You're a captain now, aren't you? I haven't congratulated you yet on that, but you must know how glad I was to hear about it."

"Thank you—I wanted you to be glad."

"Will your work take you into the trenches?"

"We hope so. We're all ready, and heaven knows they need us badly over there."

"Will they send you into the trenches right away?"

"Of course we don't know anything about that. But they ought to—and we hope they will."

"I shall think of you—and pray for you."

"Will you? Oh, will you?"

"Yes. I—I will—always."

"I've come here tonight to say something to you. I suppose you know that."

"I—I"——

"I've always felt that a man was hardly justified in telling a girl he loves her—under conditions like these. I tried to go away without seeing you. But—I couldn't do it."

The Victory

"Oh, why did you try to?"

"Because, if you cared, the next few months would be very hard for you. Dearest, do you care? Is there any chance that you will ever care? I must know—for I've loved you with my whole heart and soul ever since the hour I met you."

"If you had gone away without telling me that, I think my heart would have broken."
